CLUB WOMEN.

Beginning of Summer Series of Articles on Women's Clubs of Newton.

The Social Science Club, its History, Purpose and Plans Outlined in an Interesting Manner.

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB.

FOUNDED 1886.

Original Members: Mrs. J. Herbert Sawyer, Mrs. Henry W. Wellington, Mrs. Wilett Calkins, Miss Mary W. Calkins, Mrs. Francis B. Hornbrook, Mrs. Lincoln R. Stone.—First Added Members: Mrs. Thomas Weston, Mrs. George Linder. Admitted to General Federation, 1889. Admitted to State Federation, 1893. Admitted to City Federation, 1895.

OBJECT.

The "object of this Club shall be the study of subjects of vital interest to the city, the state, and the country, and the promotion of such interests."

The Constitution, Art. II.

"Privilege is Obligation."

REQUIREMENT FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The requirement for membership is willingness to share in some part of the work of the Club, which is the writing of papers, taking part in discussions, assisting in entertaining and contributing to the philanthropic work.

In the year 1886 on the morning of January 22, six women met in the most informal manner in the parlor of Mrs. Henry W. Wellington, Fairmont Avenue, Newton, to discuss the advisability of forming themselves into a club. This action had been first suggested by Mrs. J. Herbert Sawyer of Chestnut Hill in a conversation with Mrs. Wellington in which both had lamented the narrow range of topics, mostly superficial, which seemed to them to form the staple of conversation with a large majority of even intelligent and socially delightful women. They felt, moreover, that where conversation is superficial, acquaintance must generally be superficial also.

This was at the period when the club movement, after long and slowly gathering power, was now rapidly rising to sweep over the land like a mighty tide. It was therefore in accordance with the spirit of the time that a club, to be organized for better acquaintance upon the basis of something real to talk about, should naturally suggest itself to these earnest Newton women.

The first meeting, already mentioned, was organized with Mrs. Wellington as chairman. In discussing the formation of a club upon the lines suggested, the limit of membership, the frequency of meetings, and especially the character of the subjects to be taken up were most warmly debated. On the first two points the majority believed that the experiment could be tried with greater assurance of mutual sympathy and cooperation by beginning, at least, with a small number, and that the closer acquaintance and serious study which were the objects of their association together would be best promoted by meeting every week. As to topics, one or two advocated literary subjects as their basis of work. The general sentiment, however, was voiced by one who said, "I am a busy woman and my time is valuable. I have—as we all have—considerable familiarity with literature and opportunities for increasing it. We shall do that anyway. What we lack is a knowledge of the political and social problems of the time. My husband lately had a guest at dinner. During the meal they vigorously discussed one of the burning questions of the day while I sat silent and ashamed because I could not even understand what they were talking about. We women cannot go to college but we can educate ourselves to become intelligent companions and advisers of husbands and children by patient study of the problems that most concern our modern life. If we do not, therefore, in this proposed club, devote ourselves to the living topics upon which we are now most ignorant, I feel that I cannot give time to interests purely literary or social for which I have abundant opportunity elsewhere."

The force of these arguments was felt by all, and it was voted to form a club with a membership limited at first to twelve, to meet every Friday at ten, and to give their whole attention to "present history," that is, to the political, educational, scientific, philanthropic, and reform movements of the day, or subjects bearing directly thereon. Thus it was with the desire to broaden and enrich their family life, as well as to put their social intercourse with one another upon an intelligent and sisterly basis, that their associated study of political and social problems and events was begun. No formal program or calendar was arranged, but it was voted that "a docket be kept of subjects for consideration as proposed by members, from which the President shall make a choice and assign subjects to members for treatment at future meetings."

The vote for officers resulted in the election of Mrs. Wellington, president, Mrs. Calkins, vice president, Mrs. Sawyer, secretary. An important docket was made out from which "Prison Reform" was selected as the subject of the next meeting and assigned to Mrs. Calkins. Although the time was so short, a most careful and comprehensive paper was presented the following week chiefly upon the work and methods of the Elmira Reformatory and their underlying principles. So much interest was aroused in the subject that three meetings were devoted to it, extending the investigation to the prisons of Massachusetts, especially the Sherburne Reformatory for women.

For more than a year the club worked zealously and harmoniously without constitution or bylaws, but with few deviations from the lines marked out at the first meeting. Within the first month, however, the limit of membership was raised to twenty. On the fifth of November, the first meeting in the fall, an annual assessment of 25 cents was voted and a treasurer elected. It was also voted that the day of meeting be changed to Wednesday and that every member be called on in turn to speak upon the subject under discussion. On January 26, 1887, it was voted to set apart the first meeting of every month for business, only the most pressing matters to be brought up at other meetings. On February 23 a constitution and bylaws were adopted, for draughting which the club was indebted chiefly to Mrs. Linder and which, except as to dues and limit of membership, have remained practically the same up to the present day. On the first Wednesday in March, the date fixed for the annual meeting, the Social Science Club began work under the new constitution by the election of a full corps of officers, Mrs. Sawyer president, with the membership limit raised to fifty, not more than three members to be admitted each month, and with initiation and annual fees of $1.00 each.

Among the subjects discussed during the first two years were Prison Reform, Protection and Free Trade, the Indian Question, Chinese Immigration, Political Status of the Negro, the Blair Bill, Divorce, Adulteration of Food, the Labor Question, Co-education, Trial by Jury, Industrial Education and Manual Training, Church Music, the Legal Condition of Women. Two or more meetings were often devoted to one subject and many of these and other topics have come up for reconsideration again and again in one form or another as the Club membership has increased and as new conditions have thrown fresh light upon old questions. The writers of the papers have always felt themselves to be the ones chiefly benefited by them, but if the ardent expounders of Civil Service Reform, the Consumers' League, Forestry, the lessons of History and all sorts of educational, municipal, and domestic problems have not been able to inspire others with quite their own zeal and insight, yet the sum total of interest, knowledge and inspiration has certainly been increased by these efforts. Although the main features of the Club's policy have remained practically unchanged from the beginning, it is curious to observe how they have continually come up for re-settlement. Many have always felt that weekly meetings are too frequent. But, besides the fact that frequent meetings mean a better sustained interest, this question hinges both upon the democratic nature of the organization and upon the active part expected to be taken by members in papers and discussion. For all business, except in cases of sudden emergency, is brought before the whole Club at the monthly business meetings, or, when necessary, at the opening of other sessions, and is settled by the Club in truly town meeting fashion. It has also been the practice from the first to have in addition to papers by members an address about once a month from an outside speaker bearing on the subject in hand and followed by the usual discussion. If therefore the Club met but once a fortnight and the business meetings were confined, either this outside help, which is most desirable, or else the papers by members, which involve the very foundation on which the Club was reared, must be given up. To give up the business meetings would be to give up the Club democracy.

Again, the Social Science Club has been criticised from without and sometimes even from within for exclusiveness or unwillingness to share its good things with all who might desire them. But this exclusiveness, if it be such, is the very condition of the benefits to be shared. The Club was formed "for better acquaintance on the basis of something real to talk about," not merely to hear lectures about. But this with a larger and more rapidly growing membership would have been impossible. Many indeed feel that the present membership of 100 comes dangerously near the limit at which the average club woman can or will join in discussion or give a paper. The measurable success of the Social Science Club in this direction is due to its small beginning and slow increase, giving time for acquaintance, assimilation, and sense of freedom after each small addition. It has also been the purpose as far as possible to give every member something definite to do.

But, aside from the "good times" always to be had from doing interesting work together, the Club life has been by no means all work and no play. Although refreshments of any sort are never served at regular meetings, the social element implied in breaking bread or drinking tea together has not been lacking. Besides an occasional "gentlemen's night," this social life has been chiefly gained by all-day meetings with luncheon at the homes of hospitable members or at the Club rooms, where the morning has been given to the regular meeting and the afternoon to social enjoyment combined with an entertaining program. After this fashion the Club celebrated its tenth and fifteenth anniversaries, the former at the home of Mrs. Billings, Franklin street, the latter at the Hunnewell Club House. Many afternoon entertainments and lectures, often followed by reception and tea, have been given by members, usually for the benefit of the Industrial School.

The Club has always been remarkable for the family affection and loyalty existing among its members, such that one meets a fellow member anywhere with a gladness and sense of kinship different from that felt toward anybody else. There have not only been no cliques but almost no separation of any kind, even into classes for study. The result has been to a rather unusual extent a homogeneous, democratic, working body. Another factor that has contributed to these sympathetic relations which it was one object of the founders to establish, has been the fact that until 1898 all the meetings were held in the homes of the members, some one of whom at each meeting invited the Club to be her guests at the next session. But when the numbers, especially at guest meetings, became so large that only the exceptional house could accommodate them, commodious quarters were secured at the Hunnewell Club House which have been occupied ever since. Although something has been lost for lack of the gracious personal touch of house to house gatherings, the bond of union has proved too close to be thus weakened and the gain has been admittedly greater than the loss.

The chief outside activity of the Social Science Club has been its Vacation Industrial School at Nonantum. An account of the school follows this sketch of the Club itself. In addition the Club has since 1892 given an annual scholarship for an Indian student at Hampton, and has contributed to various philanthropic and educational objects as calls have come from time to time. It is a stockholder in the Woman's Club in Boston and sets aside an annual sum as a sinking fund looking toward a permanent home of its own. The initiation fees and annual dues are now $3.00 each, from which the Club expenses are paid. The Industrial School and Hampton Scholarship are supported entirely by voluntary contributions as well as much of the other philanthropic work. A Lecture Fund is made up of unsolicited contributions from members which brings able speakers from outside to supplement the work done within. The privilege of hearing these speakers is usually shared with guests invited by the members.

The presidents of the Social Science Club have been Mrs. Wellington, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Calkins, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Blodgett, Mrs. Hornbrook and Mrs. Barber. Under their wise guidance the Club has been trained in domestic and civic ideals, philanthropic zeal and insight, earnestness of effort, and enthusiasm tempered by orderly methods. From the beginning the Social Science Club has felt that it has an appointed work which can be done only by adhering to the policy of its founders. But it nevertheless realizes its own restrictions and believes that there is a place in Newton (Newton Corner) for a club where women busiest with domestic or other cares may find change and entertainment for an hour with no service expected in return, and where those who desire social life or lectures or class work may have what they want. Some years ago a few members of the Social Science Club met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Barrows to discuss the advisability of attempting some movement toward this end. It was, however, decided that such movement should originate among those who felt the need for themselves and that until then the time was not ripe. But the Social Science Club would gladly welcome the formation of a club elastic enough to meet the needs of all, while assured meantime that to forsake its own policy would be to change completely its identity.

COACH AND FAMILY HORSES.

The finest lot of high class horses ever exhibited for sale in New England. They were all selected with great care, have been carefully bred and driven regularly so that they are fitted for use in the city and country. Beautifully matched coach and family pairs, cobs, single drivers and saddlers, all at reasonable prices. Why not buy a thoroughly responsible firm who have been in business for more than 20 years, and who can show a better list of regular customers and references than any dealers in New England. Our policy is, where we sell a horse and it does not give perfect satisfaction, to take it back and give another equally as good, without any additional charge. We can give the very best references. Send for our announcement.

THE VACATION INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

CONDUCTED AT NONANTUM BY THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB.

It was in the nature of things that the women who formed the early membership of the Social Science Club should not long be satisfied with the study of political and social conditions and reform movements merely for self improvement or even alone for the enrichment of their own social and domestic life. They soon felt the need for expressing their increased knowledge and broader views by themselves taking some part in active service for the community at large.

The particular form which this activity took was, like the Club itself, an outcome of the spirit of the time. The efforts of Horace Mann and his successors were beginning to bear fruit in a general awakening in the public schools throughout the country to the need of manual training from an educational standpoint and industrial training from an economic point of view. An earnest presentation of the subject by Mrs. Wellington on April 20, 1887 provoked much discussion as to how some work of this kind might be undertaken which would "show that the Social Science Club could act as well as talk." It was proposed, with a view to the introduction of cooking into the Newton schools, to invite the School Committee to a special meeting of the Club to be addressed by prominent workers in industrial education. Another suggestion was that the Club enter upon active work to establish an industrial school in Newton. But no action of any sort was taken until the following year, when the Club did establish and carry on an industrial school which has flourished and increased ever since through their support and management, while cooking has never yet been introduced into the Newton schools, nor manual training upon any scale befitting a city like ours.

On May 16, 1888, Mrs. Sawyer read to the Club a short paper outlining a plan for a vacation industrial school at Thompsonville, a plan substantially put into effect the same season. In making it a vacation school the Club was doing truly pioneer work, for it was probably the first school of its kind and as such has attracted the attention of John Graham Brooks, Prof.

Zuehlke, and others. This distinction the Club owes largely to the prophetic insight and enthusiasm of Mrs. Sawyer. The first season the school was for girls exclusively and sewing only was taught by one paid teacher with volunteer assistants, members of the Club and their friends, who went two every day to teach throughout the entire term. The school was in session three hours a day five days a week for nine weeks, with a membership of about 35 and average attendance of 24. The results were so satisfactory that "we have now," says the report, "petitioned the School Board to continue the work this (the following) year and there is reason to think that our petition will be granted in some form. This hope was not realized and the Club therefore prepared to raise the money for another season's effort. It was, however, decided to remove the school to Nonantum as a larger field and one more accessible to the Club workers, and especially since an organization in Newton Centre stood ready to carry on the Thompsonville school. Mr. Henry W. Wellington kindly gave the use of the Athenaeum building and through the generosity of other friends the Club was enabled to establish a carpentry class for boys in addition to the sewing classes.

It would be most interesting and instructive to trace the movements and influences both from without and within for the betterment and brightening of social conditions in North Village which had for years centred in this Athenaeum building and from which as one product was evolved the present Boys' Club—movements and influences that made the village fertile soil in which to plant such an institution as the Nonantum Vacation Industrial School and the Athenaeum its fitting quarters. But that is another story. More to our present purpose would be a full account of the progress and enlargement of the school, the difficulties met and overcome, the ever recurring discussions in the Club as to ways and means and methods, the devotion and self sacrifice of the Club committees and voluntary assistants, the enthusiasm and faithfulness of the paid teachers. But parents and children show constant appreciation of the training in the real arts of life such as could not be had elsewhere and at a season when the children would otherwise be roaming the hot and dusty streets in idleness or worse. From time to time petitions were sent to the School Board and other efforts made to induce the city to take up a work for which private resources and control were every year proving more inadequate. But all this cannot be told in detail and much more cannot be even hinted at. It must suffice to say that last season, the summer of 1903, the school reopened, all counted, the number of 357, ages from three to sixteen, and of nine different nationalities. There were classes in sewing, cooking, carpentry, basketry, kindergarten and miscellaneous work under a supervisor and eleven teachers of whom three were wholly or in part voluntary. Of the happy results of this training upon the lives and characters of the children and the homes from which they came their teachers and many others gain such glimpses as assure them of far wider and deeper results than can ever be seen from outside or be directly proved. The school has for many years outgrown the volunteer instruction of the Club members, a corps of regularly trained teachers being engaged each year. It is several years also since the school outgrew the Athenaeum and has occupied rooms in the Jackson schoolhouse of which the use has been granted by the city.

With the close of this summer's term the Social Science Club will have expended upon the school since its beginning nearly $8,000. Some of this money has been raised by small entertainments and lectures and by one large sale, but most of it has come through the simple method of direct giving. The Club has always been composed largely of women of limited means, but many of them have pledged themselves annually for five or ten dollars or more, and the donations of friends have always been generous. But it has been impossible to keep pace with the demand as the size and scope of the work has enlarged. Last summer many boys who came day after day to ask admittance to the carpentry class had to be refused for lack of benches and of another paid assistant. Although the sum on hand for the present season is somewhat larger than that of last year, the new and unexpected demands which every year is sure to bring, besides the need of better provision on lines already established, set the goal of attainment as far out of reach as ever. Moreover, the close economy necessary to carry on an enterprise expanding much faster than its resources, while most creditable to the skill of those called upon to practice it, has been too great for the best results, involving loss of time, poorer facilities and materials, and waste of energy in overcoming needless inconveniences. But besides the difficulties inherent in the work itself the Social Science Club labors under a serious disadvantage in the absence from Newton of nearly all its members during the season when the school is in session, so that the burden of direct management falls upon a devoted few to whose wisdom and faithfulness too great praise cannot be given. And hardly any but these are present at the exhibition by the pupils themselves of their own work at the close of the six weeks' term. The exhibition this summer will fall upon August 17 and the public are cordially invited, not only friends of the school but those also who are skeptical as to its usefulness.

From every standpoint, therefore, the Club feels that the Nonantum Industrial School cannot be put upon the proper basis and made adequate to the needs of the situation and to the modern standard of such schools until it is made a part of the public educational system of Newton. Nor does this conviction arise from any desire on the part of the Club members to be relieved from active personal service of some sort for the community of which they form a part. On the contrary they would expect to lay down this work only to take up some other which they might hope to make of equal value with greater efficiency and economy of effort.

TO NURSING MOTHERS.

Are you worn out?
Tired and completely run down?
You have no vitality, no energy.
You are nervous, weak, fretful and cry easily.

For just such cases as yours Vin-Tone has been prepared.
It overcomes that tired, weak feeling and puts a new energy into body and mind.

Do not be skeptical and refuse to believe what eminent physicians pronounce to be a fact.

Doctors who have made a deep study of this subject, have, after much patience, experimenting and expense, succeeded in compounding Vin-Tone. And having been convinced of its wonderful strengthening power, they now send it out into the world to do its work among poor weary human beings.

We are glad to be able to print the good news that a remedy has at last been discovered which takes right hold of any worn-out system and builds a foundation to health and happiness.

To the nursing mother this will come like a God-send.

One bottle will convince you.

The recent decision of the railroad commission upon the matter of free transfers on the Newton and Boston railway is received with all shades of opinion by our citizens. There is no question but what the outcome is highly satisfactory to the company and its friends. There is also but little disposition to carp from those business men who are broad minded enough to know that it is impossible for any public service corporation to give even poor service when any service causes an annual deficit. To such the finding of the Commission
that the Company has an appraisal
value of $200,000 less than the capital invested, tells the whole story. There is some disposition to criticize the commission's statement that the gain
to the Newton company by the abolition of free transfers, will not add materially to the dividends of the latter road, but here again, it must be borne in mind that the Commission are working from actual facts and figures and that the general street railway situation throughout the state
fully warrants such a conclusion.

The real point of the situation, is the fact that a portion of the city is debared from the privilege of a street railway connection with the remainder of this municipality for a five cent fare. By the decision, West Newton, Auburndale and Lower Falls must pay a double fare in order to reach any point on the south side of the city. This is a distinction which many feel is unjust and may lead to action under an agreement with the various street railways made in 1897, whereby a five cent fare was conceded
anywhere in the city by the Newton
and Boston, Wellesley and Boston, and the Newtonville and Watertown street railway companies. This agreement is distinct from a condition upon a location and is what the Commission probably refer to, when they speak of "possible complications." It is certain that there is considerable feeling about the matter which really amounts to but very little so far as dollars and cents are concerned, and it is possible that steps will be taken by the city authorities to learn the rights of the city under the agreement to which we refer.

Political Notes.

The Boston Daily Advertiser pays
the following deserved compliment to our senior representative at the State House:

"Rep. Warren of Newton, ranking member of ways and means, next to Chairman Parker, is one of the most faithful and hardworking members that committee has ever had, and his record has rarely been equalled and never surpassed. With 297 matters on the docket of 1903, and 310
this present session, Warren has never missed a committee meeting either last year or this year. Not only that, but he has been present from the beginning to the end of every meeting, and as for attendance
in the house, he has not been absent
once, except when away with his committee. This is a record rarely equalled."

"Warren is a solid business man,
possessed of sound common sense,
and applying business principles to the consideration of measures, rather than logrolling. There is no member of the present house whose speeches
are so terse and pithy."

"He has not decided yet whether to be a candidate for a 3rd term. But if he does not come he will be sorely missed."

City Hall Notes.

The Street Dept. was well represented at the Work Horse parade in Boston last Monday, and John Carroll received the bronze medal for his 37 years of service,
and his team was awarded 4th prize.
Other prizes awarded to John Duncan, 1st for double team, Thomas Matthews, 2nd for double team, Jas. Keating and Michael McDermott, 4th each for single teams, and a decision is expected today awarding Patrick Halloran 1st prize for double team.

Memorial Day.

Amid lowering skies on Memorial Day morning, Charles Ward Post 62
U. S. A. R. attended to their usual duty of decorating the graves of the dead.
Details covered all the cemeteries in the city and at Mr. Auburn. The comrades assembled at Newton Highlands for the annual parade at noon
and were entertained in Stevens Hall
with lunch provided by the Newton Highlands Improvement Society. Following the refreshments line was formed and passed in review before His Honor Mayor Weed and the city government in front of the post office on Lincoln street. The procession moved as follows:

Platoons of Police in charge of Lieutenant Fred M. Mitchell.
Chief Marshal.

The column moved under direction of Chief Marshal George M. Fiske through Lincoln and Walnut streets, Lake avenue, Beacon and Walnut streets. It had hardly started before the rain which had been threatening
all day began to fall and gradually increased to a heavy shower. Under these circumstances the exercises at the cemetery were abandoned, the high school battalion proceeding at once to their drill hall, the invited guests to the post hall and the Grand Army making a short visit to the cemetery only.

The address by Rev. E. D. Burr and the reading of the orders of the day including Lincoln's Gettysburg speech which were scheduled for the cemetery were given at Temple Hall
after the banquet.

The new arrangement of placing the band on the stage was a great improvement over former years, although it crowded the Clafin Guards out of the hall and they had their dinner at Armory Hall.

Commander C. E. Patten presided at the banquet and although the usual fault of having too many speakers was noticeable, it was so far modified by the good sense of those called upon, in the matter of time and the good words which they said, that the banquet was one of the best for many years.

Rev. E. D. Burr of the First Baptist church, Newton Centre, spoke upon the flag, as representing not persons, but principles, and advocated a more general use of it on all occasions, saying that "the flag will never be consecrated by misuse." He spoke of the colors of the flag, the red representing the purity of your motives, and the blue, the benediction of Heaven upon your work. Dr.
Burr wished the flag so used that the youth of the land might learn that it stands for freedom, brotherhood, union and sacrifice, the four great principles for which it stands.

He closed with an earnest plea for a patriotism that will "Live" for our country now, as our fathers had "died" for the country two generations ago.

Congressman Powers before a Newton audience, is always at home,
and speaking for the United States,
he made a strong plea for preparedness for war as essential for peace.
Referring to the present war in the Orient, he declared that one nation fought with the faith that to die in battle was a sure entry into heaven,
while the other invoked Divine blessing before each battle. You he said entered upon the greatest war
in the history of the world, swayed simply by your love of country.

Many wars he believed were justifiable and instanced the French Revolution and our own Civil War,
but there is no reason now why two nations should not settle their differences by arbitration. But so long as they will not, the United States must be prepared for war. Peace today is being purchased because all the great nations are ready for war. He believed it was not only the duty of the United States to maintain peace at home but to control the destinies of the entire world. The power of the federal government is growing while that of the states is fading away.

This is paternalism but it tends to draw the people closer to the federal government, and makes the nation
stand for something with new comers to our shores. In closing he referred to the power of the people to govern
and said that the will of the people of this country today is supreme and triumphant principally as the result of your labors, and that should be reward enough for you.

Representative James A. Lowell made a brief speech upon what had been accomplished by the veterans
after the war.

Mayor Weed said that the new generation cannot share with you the personal memories of former days,
but we can appreciate the pathos of your depleted ranks, experience the thrill of a nation aroused to war, and see the devotion of those of you who gave their lives for the welfare of the nation.

Chief Marshal G. M. Fiske said that we should remember that Memorial day exercises were intended principally for those who fell in battle and that those who had survived had already received a great reward
in witnessing the mighty uplift of the nation. He would have the day teach two great lessons, the meaning of the word "liberty" and the idea that American patriotism meant something higher than love of our own country, and included a love for other nations as well as our own.

President E. P. Saltonstall of the board of aldermen said that he envied the veterans the opportunity they had of proving that this republic was not an experiment. He wished the day might teach this generation the meaning of the great battles of the war.

Mr. Samuel Ward, for the associate members, and a brother of Charles Ward for whom the Post was named made a touching speech, relating the times when enlistment meetings were held and personal reminiscences of his brother. He spoke of the obligations the Ward family felt because the post had taken their name, and closed with a plea for gratitude from the people of Newton to their public servants, men who since the war
have done their duty to the public.

Rev. Dr. G. T. Smart made a telling speech, as a naturalized citizen upon benevolent assimilation and the unities of our political activities.

Speeches were also made by Capt.
E. R. Springer of Co. C, 5th Regt., Major S. S. Paine of the High School battalion, Senior Vice Commander
J. Holman Pryor of the Spanish War Veterans, Capt. Wentworth of the Sons of Veterans and Rev. O. W.
Scott of the Upper Falls.

The banquet closed with the singing of America.

The Newton Cadet Band played
several selections during the dinner and mention should also be made of the new drum corps which has recently been formed for the Post.

GOOD FISHING AND LARGE CATCHES.

The warm spell of weather has brought forth the anglers, the trout and salmon are now rising to the fly
in Moosehead, the Rangeleys and the smaller ponds and lakes in Maine and New Hampshire. It is better fishing than at this time last year, because of the late opening season. If you contemplate a trip send two cents in stamps to the Boston and Maine Passenger Department, Boston, for their book, "Fishing and Hunting." It tells you where to go and what to find. A booklet giving the fish and game laws of Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont and Canada will be sent free, accompanying.

WYMAN-CROSBY

Miss Alice Sibley Crosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Uberto C. Crosby, formerly of Newton but now residents of Manchester, N. H. was married to Mr. Louis Eliot Wyman of that city on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride. Rev. Burton W. Lockhart of the Congregational church officiated.

The bride was gowned in cream
brocade satin cut en train, trimmed with accordion plaited chiffon and point de gaze lace, and wore a veil fastened with a pearl and sapphire brooch, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaids, Miss Edith L. Wyman
of Lynn, Mass., and Miss Sally E.
Hallett of Newton were dressed in decollete gowns of white messaline silk with pink girdles and carried bridesmaids roses. Miss Helen A.
Edmonds of Newton was maid of honor and wore a gown of pink crepe
de chine over pink silk, with white.
Beulah Bailey and Nellie Lee Brown
of Newton and Marguerite Morrill and Ethel Brooks of Manchester were ribbon girls dressed alike in white messaline de sole over white satin and with white girdles. Charlotte Parker of Manchester was the flower girl and immediately preceded the bride and her father.

Mr. Henry A. Yeomans, Harvard
'00 of Spokane Wash., was the best man and Messrs Arthur M. Wyman, Raymond T. Parke, Alfred M. Tozzar of Lynn and Kenneth Shelburne of Schenectady, N. Y. were the ushers.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a reception followed the ceremony from 8 to 9:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman will visit the Rangeley Lakes on their wedding tour.

Letter to John Ward,
Newton Centre.

Dear Sir: Thomas J. Bannan, druggist, Westbury, R. I., says:
"Westerly painters expect a gallon
of paint to cover 19 sets of blinds;
Devco covers 25 there is no such thing
as rubbing this out."
(The usual reckoning is for a gallon to cover 16. We suspect the Westerly people don't wear their paint till it gets very shabby.)

Devco covers more; of course, we know that; we know why too; it's all paint and full measure.

Yours truly

F. W. Devco & Co.

At the Churches.

A brass plate, made by the firm of Shreve, Crump and Low Co., has been placed in the vestibule of the Eliot church under the new echo organ. It bears these words: "This echo organ,
the gift of a friend is placed here
in memory of Lewson Everard Chase, who, for nearly a generation served
this church with unusual fidelity,
both in its Sunday School and Choir.
1835-1894. 'Serve the Lord with Gladness. Come before his presence with Singing.'"

This evening at Eliot church,
Echoes from the International S. S.
Convention at Jerusalem, will be given by some delegates just returned,
and the coming S. S. Convention which is to be held in Newton in the Fall will be outlined.

"Some People who might go Further and Fare better" is the topic of the Rev. Philo W. Sprague's address at the special service for the people, in Grace church next Sunday night. The choir will render Shelley's anthem
"Hark, hark my soul." There will be a bass solo, Nevins' "The hills of God." All seats are free.

Bishop Lawrence will preach at St.
John's church, Newtonville, next Wednesday evening at 7:30 and will confirm a large class.

BASEBALL.

The annual game between the old men and the boys took place on the Hunnewell avenue grounds last Monday morning, and was enlivened by a dog fight and the presence of a Congressman and Mayor.

The boys were handicapped by a lame pitcher, who could not field his position, but did excellent work in the box, except in one inning. Then the old men fell upon him and aided by a few errors landed eight runs, all they made in the game. The boys played a steady, heady game and made six runs. Young and Spencer the rival pitchers did fine work and the old men were not quite so decrepit as the name sounds. The old men were H. E. Bothfield, E. T. Fearing, Spencer, Baldwin, Angier, Garcelon, Hellen, Soule and Bryant.

Mr. Howard B. Coffin has just received 200 barrels of his famous "Howard Fancy Flour," made of the best fancy Minnesota spring wheat. This will make the white, sweetest and most delicious bread, unequalled in quality.

Coming Attractions

Keith's Theatre—Music lovers who attend Keith's weekly to listen to the delightful concerts by the Fadettes woman's orchestra bid fair to develop into regular patrons of the favorite local playhouse, since they seem to enjoy the vaudeville program quite as much as the regular Keithites. The shows given are uniformly strong in every department, as much so as in the regular winter season in fact. The announcements for the week commencing June 6 include the following entertainers: James F. Kelly and Dorothy Kent in their comedy specialty "A Ginger Snap;" Brothers Martine comic acrobats introducing a bounding billiard table; Colter and Starr blackface comedians; LePage the famous novelty jumper and Chas. C. Blanchard and Ella Hughes Wood in a rural sketch "The Boas of the House." The Fadettes will play all new and popular selections, and the entire list of motion pictures in the biograph will be changed.

Tremont Theatre—When the sixth week of the engagement of "Woodland" began at the Tremont last Monday night there was a new member of the cast. Nellie Pollis, one of the cleverest ingenues on the stage, appeared for the first time in the role of the Turtle Dove, succeeding Miss Olive North. Miss Pollis has many friends among Boston theatregoers and she has appeared here in some of the foremost productions. Like all of Mr. Savage's productions, "Woodland" has been a distinct success from the beginning, for the entire atmosphere of the forest primeval has been transferred to the stage. All of the characters represent birds. The music is written in Mr. Luders' most pleasing style and there are brilliant stage pictures almost without end. The summer scale of prices will be in force at the Tremont Theatre from this time on.

"Rubdry"
Bath
TowelsThe Rubdry is the product of American brains and Egyptian Cotton.

What are towels for?

Absorption and friction.

What is Absorption?

Capillary attraction.

The water runs up the loose fibres
of cotton in the nubs of the "Rub-dry" and is instantly absorbed. You do not use a piece of hard finished writing paper to take up a blot of ink, you use a blotting paper and why? Because it is made up of loose, hairy fibres which draw the ink up.

This is capillary attraction.

The nubs in the Rubdry give the friction

Rubdry Towels are made with nubs which give exhilarating friction
and cleanse the pores: an absolute requisite to the health and beauty of the skin.

The Rubdry Towel is made only in the following qualities:25c 35c, 50c, 75c, and $1.00 each.

NOTE.—All Rubdry Towels are sold in a paper envelope or box.
Guaranteed to be absolutely clean,
and the only towel fit to use without first washing.

Origin of City Plans.

All cities, with few exceptions, trace the origin of their plan to the enclosed camp, and many still show marked features of primitive fortifications. In all early scheme for defense the enclosed square was considered the best. From the time when wagons were merely parked on the plain to the time when buildings were constructed with blank walls to the enemy, and their facades to the open square, this plan has been universally adopted, and many of the great squares or market places of great cities still show undeniable evidences of these precautions for defense. In the old city of Brussels the square upon which faces its wonderful city hall is approached by streets so narrow that they must surely have been constructed with the idea of defense in mind.—Architects and Builders' Magazine.

The Stickelback Legend.

The stickelback is one of the species of fish that build nests. There is a legend that the stickelback builds a nest because during the deluge it pulled the tow out of the bilge hole of the ark, and if it had not been for the hedgehog, who plugged up the leak with his own body, Noah and his sons would have had an exciting time baling out their boat. When Noah found out who had done the deed he ordered as a punishment that the culprit should be compelled each year to build a nest, while other fishes would have an easy time of it.

The Drum Major.

The dignitary known as drum major was not generally recognized in the English army till the close of the reign of Charles I. Corporal punishment up to the time of William III. was executed by the provost marshal and his deputies, but afterward the drummer was entrusted with the task. Among the records of the Coldstream guards is an order that "the drum major be answerable that no cat has more than nine tails." In 1661 a drum major of the parliamentary army received 1s. 6d. pay per diem. All the Year Round.

An Idol's Long Sleep.

In Pegu may be seen an English sentry keeping guard over a Burmese idol. The Burmese believe the idol is asleep and that when he awakes the end of the world will come. The sentry is there to prevent any one from entering the pagoda, which is his place of repose, and awakening him. His slumbers have lasted 6,000 years.

A Friendly Call.

Little Tommy Munnam, may I go over and play with Mrs. Newdoor's children? Mother—You have never cared to play with them. Little Tommy—But my ball went over into their yard, and they threw it back to me, and it was all sticky. I guess they've got some candy.

What They Missed.

"Did you attend the Wilson obsequies?" asked Mrs. Obdenstie. "Gracious, no," replied her hostess. "Have they had some? Why, me and Josiah was at the funeral of their grand-mother only last week."—Chicago Record-Herald.

CLUB WOMEN.

Summer Series of Articles on Women's Clubs of Newton.

The Review Club of Auburndale and the Waban Women's Club.

The Review Club of Auburndale has been in existence thirteen years. It belongs to the state and City Federations and has a limited membership of forty, with a waiting list. There are twelve of the original members on the calendar for this year.

Mrs. George W. Blodgett who founded the club for literary study and social intercourse, was the first president. The following ladies have served since as presiding officials: Mrs. Walter Ware, Mrs. F. N. Peloubet, Mrs. C. W. Higgins, Mrs. Chas. C. Burr, Mrs. George D. Harvey and Miss Ella B. Smith.

At the annual meeting in April the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. M. E. Herron; Vice Pres. Mrs. Vine D. Baldwin; Secretary, Mrs. Henry G. Hildreth; Executive Committee, Mrs. Arthur C. Farley, Mrs. Wm. A. Knowlton, Mrs. Edward F. Miller.

In our study we have given seven years to history, two to travel and four to literature. We have contributed to several philanthropic objects the past four years. The coming season is to be devoted to a study of Browning. All our programs are prepared by a committee of our members chosen by the club.

The Waban Woman's Club was formed in 1896 as I suppose most clubs are formed, by a few enterprising women coming together, informally, to look over the field, and also to consider whether the time was ripe for such an organization: a sort of committee of investigation, appointed by themselves and to consider the ways and means. The village was not large, but a small church had been gathered, and it was thought that a club might materially assist in uniting the community as well as to supply interesting topics of thought and discussion and so to aid in the development and education of the whole people. Such was the idea, and after a full discussion in which nearly every one took part, it was unanimously decided, to make a start and to form such a club that we might be on a par with our neighbors; all of whom rejoiced in one, if not in several clubs which were certainly well sustained. This first matter being arranged, so far as it was possible for us to arrange it, it became necessary to designate our club and several names were proposed to be acted upon at our next meeting. Next we questioned how to provide ourselves with members and it was advised that we send written invitations to each lady in the community that we might be sufficiently democratic in the first place and give everyone a free chance to join us.

We took up in the next place the question of topics for study and how we should provide for their discussion. This caused not a little talk, there were many pros and cons, but finally the majority seemed to think that if we would secure the full benefit of our club work we must take upon ourselves the study of each topic, that it would be far more stimulating and rewarding to search into the matter for ourselves than to sit idly listening to the talk of an outsider upon the theme. We thought we wished not to be beholden to anyone but to form our own opinions and to stand by them whether right or wrong, that is, we felt sure that we could make them all right: why not?

Having settled these important points we were satisfied and we then chose a committee to form a constitution, etc., and adjourned to meet in one fortnight from that date. The second meeting was held on January 21st, 1896 with from twenty to twenty-five ladies who approved of our plan; when we thoroughly organized, discussed and adopted our constitution, settled upon a name for our club, The Waban Woman's Club, and commenced operations. We decided to meet once a fortnight, to have a membership fee of one dollar and to divide our topics so that two or three ladies should occupy each afternoon between them leaving a little time also for discussion among the whole, and thus we embarked on our undertaking.

During the first two or three years all went well, the club was small, the number not exceeding thirty-five or forty. The papers were all prepared by the ladies themselves, the members of the club, with no outside aid. We quite enjoyed our little meetings. We laid aside our outside garments, brought our sewing or our knitting work, had no conventionalities, and listened patiently to the plain and unadorned talks from each other, regardless of the great world rushing along far away. There were no automobiles then or if there were we did not know it. They were not within our reach, we felt at ease and quite secure. But alas! we could not go on so quietly forever. Our little village began to grow, new members began to join us with new ideas and large ambitions. We doubled our fee and thus having a fund to draw from our conditions altered and we naturally wished to spend the money. We began at first, only occasionally, to call in some one to address us, but, by slow degrees, little by little, we encroached upon our original plan and thus it came to pass, almost before we knew it, ourselves, one and another, begged to be allowed to invite a speaker on a most inviting theme she knew, we should enjoy her friend, she was so competent, and she herself was not so, etc., and thus we succumbed, took down all bars and let the public in, and our little homespun plan was given up. And now we have lectures on a great variety of subjects, indeed on every subject that interests people, on subjects that men talk about. Our ladies come dressed in their picture hats and all their sewing work is left at home. And so pass away the simple old customs of society, and so comes on the new, progress we call it, and so the world advances and at last dawns the millennium.

Besides all this we have the usual teas, gentlemen's night, various social occasions, card parties not being forgotten, while our membership is continually increasing, now amounting to seventy-five or thereabouts. During the last two years we have enjoyed most delightful "Talks on Art" by one of our residents, Mr. Pietro Isola, himself an artist whom business brought to our New England shores from sunny Italy some years ago. Mr. Isola is well qualified to instruct us on this subject and has made his talks very interesting. They embrace both ancient and modern art well illustrated by photographs. This has added much to our enjoyment and we feel that we are highly privileged. I have taken much pleasure in preparing this little sketch of our club and I hope it will prove satisfactory. The Woman's Club is a modern institution, but it has taken root firmly and spread through our land from north to south and from east to west. I think every woman who joins such a club is prepared to advocate it and to hope that it will endure so that our children and our children's children to the thousandth generation will be also club-women.

POPULAR MUSIC FREE.

Among the popular features lately added by The Boston Sunday Herald—those to those characteristics which long ago assured its undisputed pre-eminence throughout New England as a weekly news magazine—none secured such instant and widespread approval as has its music supplement. "Ella," the supplement of May 29, was a pretty waltz song, happily blending humor with love interest; "Honora," issued last Sunday, is a beautiful Irish ballad, full of tender sentiment; while "Yo San," announced for next Sunday, is full of the dramatic fire of Belasco's famous Japanese drama, "The Darling of the Gods."

SERGEANT-MORGAN.

Miss Marion Eldredge Morgan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Morgan of Central street, Auburndale, became the bride of Mr. Frederick Eaton Sergeant of North Attleboro, last Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas W. Bishop of Auburndale, at the home of the bride, at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine over tulle and wore the customary tulle veil, fastened with lilies of the valley and carried a bouquet of brides roses. Her sister, Miss Ethel Morgan was maid of honor and she was dressed in pink crepe de chine over tulle and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. M. M. Sergeant of New York as best man, and Messrs Frank Sergeant of Manchester, N. H., and J. S. Hathaway of Boston were the ushers. A reception was held immediately after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Sergeant were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sergeant.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Sergeant will reside in North Attleboro. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, the groom's present to the bride being a princess ring with diamonds.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

As this paper goes to press, the session of the legislature for 1904 will be gathered to its fathers, that is, speaking of it in a general way. As a matter of fact, this particular assemblage never had a father or mother, but like Topsy, it "jes grewed."

Almost from the first there were indications that a series of surprises were in store for the great and general court, and for those who were in attendance upon its goings and comings. When the annual message of his Excellency, the Governor, was read to the legislature, a cloud no larger than a man's hand and a good deal in the form of a man's hand, was seen to arise in the East (East Boston) and although it has grown to cover the sky it has not materially changed its form since the first day it was discovered. A good deal of significance was placed upon the selection of the committees by those who were in a position to judge; in brief, the foundations were laid in the early days of the year for a very strenuous session, and from that day until the cap-stone was laid in position this week, the path from the Executive Chamber to Legislative Halls has been strewn with thorns, pieces of broken glass, and discarded fire arms of all sorts and manner of workmanship. The conduct of the Legislature has been a law unto itself. Sometimes it has been as wise as a reptile and again it has been as harmless as a pigeon, strongly resembling those two representatives of the lower kingdom, in much of its conduct. Sometimes it has been Republican; on other occasions, Democratic, and now and then Socialist. At times it has approached the Executive Chamber with a kiss upon its lips, at other times with its hand upon its hip. How much time would have been saved this session if the opinion of the Governor could have been obtained in advance upon the matters which have subsequently been vetoed; and those opinions had been acceded to with the same unanimity as when expressed in the vetoes, as they should have been, of course. In some instances the action of the Legislature upon the vetoes of Governor Bates has been little short of ridiculous. Most of the measures vetoed were originally passed by votes largely in excess of the two-thirds required to pass the bill over the veto, yet in only one instance has any matter which has been returned by the Governor been sustained, "to the contrary notwithstanding." In the Child-Labor matter a majority of the House declined to have its former judgment revised by His Excellency, but the necessary two-thirds could not be obtained. This action upon vetoes shows the potency of a roll call. So prevalent has become the practice of personal consideration in the legislature that only a roll call is significant and men approach that ordeal as a pupil enters the school-master's private office. So long as members can holler from the floor their approval or disapproval of a measure they may escape responsibility, but when their names have to be "entered upon the public records" they have to face the music and sometimes it is music indeed. There have been instances where men have been retired to private life because their names appeared in the wrong column in the public records.

Verily the past six months have been months of action and counter action in official life at the State House, and considerable space might be taken in commenting upon the career of the Legislature of 1904, the Senate of which has been at par, and the House the best since 1897. Just the same as though it were necessary, the House went through the annual mock session last Friday with Deacon Hayes in the chair and Chaplin Waldron absent. The usual informalities were indulged in; sentences were pronounced upon about half of the members of the House, some of the more guilty ones escaping punishment. While noticing this event, would it be worth mentioning that it might be well to really have a mock session now and then, just to see what particular features in legislation were mocked? There were periods during the regular session when Mr. Hayes would have looked well in the chair.

That was a sharp retort of Representative Sherburne the other day when he followed Representative Allen's speech against the Western Massachusetts Street Railway bill, in which Mr. Allen opposed the bill because of alleged stock-watering. Mr. Sherburne said that as Mr. Allen was in the milk business of course his suspicions as to the water in the stock were natural. Then the House roared as though the members possessed some experience with water in the milk stock. Mr. Sherburne's speech was but a minute long, but Mr. Allen said afterward that it was too long.

It will not be necessary to watch Chairman Parker of the Ways and Means committee hereafter. The committee "watched" Mr. Parker last week, with an inscription on the inside of the case.

BOSTON.
334 BOYLSTON ST.
(Opposite the Arlington Street Church).

WILL RE-OPEN IN ITS NEW BUILDING, SEPT. 6, 1904.

This school now has the most elegant, complete and extensive private school building in America. In the planning and furnishing of its NEW BUILDING expense has not been considered even in the minutest detail. New fittings of special design will be found to have taken the place of the ordinary furniture used in school buildings. The entire outfit of the school in its old building has been sacrificed that the school in the new home might have only the newest and best obtainable.

EXPERIENCED TEACHERS.
The only feature recognizable will be the able and experienced corps of teachers who have given this school its wide-spread reputation. The tuition fees are the same as during the previous ten years, and pupils who contemplate attending may congratulate themselves that this year was the chosen time for their commercial course and the finishing of their school work.

COURSE OF STUDY.
The course of study prepares pupils thoroughly for all the duties of the Counting-room, Book-keeping (by any system); Stenography (Graham and Pitman systems); English Composition; Commercial Correspondence; Commercial Law; Commercial Geography; Commercial Handwriting; Typewriting; Civil Service (preparation for examinations); Normal School Course (preparation for teaching). Pupils will find the location of the school most accessible from all points; over 400 cars daily, with a stopping place directly in front of the school building. No agents, canvassers or canvasses are employed by this institution.

Neuralgia
Heart Disease

Chronic cases relieved in from 20 minutes to one hour, and complete cure guaranteed. No Morphine, Aconite, Opium, Chloral or other dangerous drugs used. I regret to say that physicians who attempt to treat the above, fail to do good because they do not fully understand the case they endeavor to handle. Instead of removing the primary cause, as I do, they treat the secondary symptoms; hence their failure and my success. I have treated and cured doctors and their families in Boston and New York without making Morphine heads of them.

I am a Specialist, and Neuralgia, Asthma and Heart disease are my specialties. I guarantee to cure any case undertaken. Proofs at office.

It is the usual thing to hear many comments of praise, after Memorial Day, on the fine appearance of the Newton Cemetery, and they are fully deserved. The Newton Cemetery takes high rank in the rural cemeteries of the entire country, and is noted for its beauty and cultivation.
The annual meeting of the lot owners will be held tomorrow, and there is no better way of showing appreciation of the good work of the trustees
and superintendent than by a full attendance.

Special efforts are being made by the Grand Army this year for a general observance of flag day next Tuesday. Flags will be displayed upon all the public buildings and schools in the city, and every citizen is requested to honor his country, his flag and himself by placing the national colors upon his premises on that day.

The petition of many prominent citizens for a playground at Nonantum is a step in the right direction. Some suitable place for rest and recreation combined is much needed in this section of our city. Prompt and favorable action should be taken by the city fathers in order that some good may be given the present season.

Mount Ida School.

During the past week the Mount Ida School for Girls and Young Women has been holding its commencement exercises. On Wednesday afternoon the graduating class had its class day exercises consisting of the reading of the class history, the prophecy, and the class poem, in the gymnasium. The class then adjourned to the lawn where the class ivy was planted.

On Thursday evening the commencement exercises were held in the gymnasium of the school which was very attractively decorated with bun-ging of the class colors, and an abundant of plants. Rev. Dr. Shinn, rector of the Episcopal church, made the invocation, and Dr. Hudson, pastor of the Unitarian church pronounced the benediction. Dr. Richard Burton delivered the address. Dr. Burton spoke on "Ideals for Life." The address was a scholarly presentation of his ideas of the elements that make for happiness in life. The address was helpful in its suggestions to the young people present, and was greatly enjoyed by the large audience that completely filled the large and attractive gymnasium.

Professor Jewett presented the diplomas to the graduating class in a short address setting forth the main features of the school. Professor Jewett stated that the school will prepare any girls to take the Radcliffe examinations with honor, or to enter any American college for women on certificates. The school also offers a general course which is practically elective. English and American Literature are the only studies that are required of all. The school offers a four years' course in French, German and Greek, and a six year's course in Latin. Piano and Voice and studies in Art are specialties. This year great interest has been taken in the history of art which has been under the direction of Professor H. H. Powers of Newton, who will continue to have the direction of the work next year.

The following young ladies received diplomas: Rachel Burton Hammond,
New York, Alice May Hastings,
Mass., Marie Gertrude Hennigan,
Mass., Myrtice Mae Johnson, Conn., Mabel Pennell, Ohio, Matilda Mae Merriman, Mass., Mario Louise Stimson, Mass., Alice Estelle Woodside, Texas, Margarita Louise Wood, New York.

Professor and Mrs. Jewett gave a reception to the senior class and their friends on Friday evening. About 150 guests from Newton and abroad were present. The parlors of the school were profusely decorated with plants and flowers. Every one was made to feel the home life of the school which is a feature of the Mt. Ida School.

The year just closing has been a most successful one. Professor Jewett states that applications for next year are coming in rapidly and that the places are nearly all taken thus early.
Professor and Mrs. Jewett give their entire time to the school. One cannot be in the school but a short time before he feels the warm home atmosphere of this attractive school.

The catalogue that the school publishes is one of the most attractive that we have seen. It contains many half-tones of the buildings and rooms of the school. It is not too much to say that Professor Jewett is establishing here in Newton one of the best schools for young women in New England.

ard street, Watertown. Telephone

At the Churches.

The West Newton Unitarian Society will consider the matter of a new church edifice next Monday night.

The 43rd anniversary of the Sunday school and Children's Day will be observed at the North Evangelical church, Chapel street, on Sunday June 12 at 6:30 o'clock. All friends invited.

Mr. Herbert Booth, son of General
William Booth of London, England, will give his thrilling, original and captivating lecture, entitled "The Early Christian Heroes" in Lincoln
Hall, Newton Highlands, on Saturday June 18 at 8 o'clock. In describing this biographic lecture the Buffalo Times says: "There was not an inattentive
ear or a dull moment for two hours.
Mr. Booth seems to have all the power of a dramatic actor over his audience." Tickets, 25c, are on sale at
J. H. Green's drug store, Newton Highlands.

At Channing church last Sunday morning a patriotic service was held by the Sunday school. The program consisted of the singing of hymns and remarks by the pastor and superintendent.

Flower Sunday will be observed at the West Newton Unitarian church next Sunday.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Association held recently at the Newton Centre Methodist church the following officers were elected president, Mrs. Ella F.
Brown; vice president, Mrs. S. T.
Emery; secretary, Mrs. C. P. Lyford;
treasurer, Mrs. A. R. Flanders;
executive board, the officers and Mrs. A. L. Rand, Mrs. George F.
Richardson, Mrs. Edward R. Spear,
Mrs. E. B. Hopkins and Mrs. Albert
M. Fowle.

TROWBRIDGE-WOODS.

The marriage of Mr. Herbert Moulton Trowbridge, formerly of Newton,
the only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W.
Trowbridge of Hingham avenue to Miss Rosalie Winton Woods, the only daughter of Mrs. A. M. Woods took place last Wednesday noon at the home of the bride in Los Angeles, Cal.
Rev. Dr. Warren F. Day of the Congregational church of that city officiated
at a quiet home wedding attended only by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride was gowned in white voile
over white tulle, handsomely trimmed with lace applique and she was attended by Miss Lottie R. Graves of Pomona, Cal., the maid of honor dressed in a dainty gown of white muslin de soie.

The best man was Mr. J. B. Woods of San Jacinto, Cal., brother of the bride and the ceremony was performed
under a bower of wild yellow mustard blossoms, contrasted with sweet peas and roses.

A wedding breakfast immediately followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge then left for a wedding tour to San Diego and old Mexico. They will be at home after August 1st at 1107 West 18th st., Los Angeles, Cal., where the groom has a responsible position with the Los Angeles National Bank.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Alumni Association of the West Newton English and Classical school will hold its annual reunion
next Wednesday evening at the North Gate Club, on Waltham street, West
Newton.

This will be a special occasion as 1904 is the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the school. After the business meeting reminiscences of Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen will be given by Mr. E. D. Haskell, Mr. Geo.
A. Walton and others. Social intercourse, music and dancing will follow. In the course of the evening a mock "Civil Service" Examination will be presented.

Announcement was made Sunday of the resignation of Rev. Ozora S.
Davis, D. D., who for the past four years has occupied the pulpit of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville. He is to leave Sept. 1, to accept a call from the South Congregational Church of New Britain, Conn. The announcement was made by Wallace C. Boyden, clerk of the church, at the close of the regular service Sunday morning. While the resignation of Dr. Davis causes much regret, it has not occasioned surprise
as it has been known for several weeks that he had received the call.
At a meeting this evening the church
will take official action upon the pastor's letter of resignation.

RECITAL.

Miss Alice G. Mullen, organist at St. John's church, Lower Falls, will give a recital and concert at Temple hall, Newtonville, this evening assisted by her pupils, and these artists:
Florence E. Taft, soprano, Chas. P.
Stuart, baritone, Miss Amelia Rockett, violin, Mrs. Marjorie C. Wales, contralto, Dr. J. P. Rockett, cornet and Miss Grace Reardon, soprano. Miss Mullen is a graduate of the Berkeley academy of music, where she received a gold medal.

At 3 p. m. each day of sale Professor La Roux will make his thrilling parachute leap from an elevation of 5000 feet. Don't miss it.

ARE THE

IN THE WORLD.

WHY?

1st—They are seamless, having no seams either at toe or heel, as many so called seamless stockings have.

2nd—They are woven to fit the contour of the leg and hold their shape after washing.

N. B.—To the best of our knowledge there is no other 12 1-2c Hose on sale in this country today, but what is woven the same the full length
and steam-shrunk into shape; after washing there is no shape to them. Yale Hose fit until worn out.

3rd—They are sufficiently elastic to fit every one.

4th—They are absolutely Fast Black and remain a brilliant color after repeated washings.

5th—They are made of the strongest yarn put into any hose at this price and have an extra thread all through the foot. These two reasons make them the best wearing 12 1-2c Hose in the world.

6th—They cost us more than any other 12 1-2c Hose we could buy.

Death of Mrs. Horatio S. Noyes.

The widow of Mr. Horatio S. Noyes, a former well known resident of Newton died in Chicago on Monday last at the age of 76 years. The body was brought here by Mr. Wm. Noyes, her son, and interment took place in the Newton Cemetery on Thursday afternoon. A brief service was held in the chapel which was attended by relatives. Rev. John Goddard of Newtonville conducted the service. Mr. Noyes was the proprietor of the Nonantum House in Nonantum Square in the early '70's and later the family moved to Newtonville and resided for several years on Highland avenue. Mrs. Noyes had lived with her son in Chicago for the past ten years or more. Another son is Capt. Charles Noyes U. S. A.

Letter to Henry W. Bates,

Dear Sir: If it took 10 gallons to paint your house last time with somebody else's paint, and takes 8 with Devco, we save you $8 or $10; for painting costs two or three times as much as paint.

Mr. Ezra Rathmell, Williamsport, Pa. always used 11 gallons of mixed paint for his house; Devco took 6. But that isn't all; that's only first cost; how long will it wear? The paint that goes furthest in covering, wears best too. All paint, true paint, and full-measure, are on one side; part paint, false paint, and short-measure are on the other. What can you expect?

Yours truly

F. W. Devco & Co

High School Notes.

Last Friday evening the Newton High School Chorus under the skilful direction of Mr. Horace M. Walton, gave a concert in the High school hall. All the solo performers were encoored and the violinist had a double encore.

It would be invidious to particularize but we must not neglect to mention one performer not down on the program i. e. Miss Helen Bassett, who in addition to singing a solo, played most of the accompaniments more than acceptably.

But if the solo work was meritorious, that of the chorus was no whit behind. Some numbers whose execution calls for special praise were the Largo from Beethoven, Out on the Deep by Lohr, and last and best of all, the well known Pilgrims' Chorus from Tannhauser. This last was admirably sung, the difficult chromatic passages going in almost perfect time, a rare thing even among opera companies. Indeed we have seldom, if ever, heard it better done anywhere.

After all, the great success of the evening was that of one whose name is modestly left off the program entirely, Mr. Walton. To him should be tendered our hearty appreciation and our congratulations upon such a triumphant success.

Two long carloads of happy youngsters had a most enjoyable picnic at Lexington Park last Saturday under the auspices of the Channing Sunday School. The affair was in charge of Messrs. Edw. Moll, Mitchell Wing and B. L. Goodwin and the athletics were managed by Mr. A. H. Wing.

The sports were much enjoyed and the winners were as follows: 100 yard dash and 220 yard dash, Graham Fearing; Centipede race Loveland's team; Bounce battle, Raymond Stanley; 40 yd dash, A. Ringrose; 3 legged race, girls, Helen Shepardson and Eleanor Boyd; boys, Holmes and Byfield; teachers' race, Miss Coppins; class races, by Helen Shepardson, Dorothy Emmons, Helen Rothfield and C. Brunier.

A meeting in the interests of the establishment of neighborhood playgrounds in Newton was held in the parlors of Grace Church last Monday night and was largely attended by those seeking to improve the condition of the youth of the city. Among those who spoke were John M. Dick, who is prominently identified with the Idlewild summer camp for boys, Carl Ellison and Rev. Robert Keating Smith, crate of Grace church, who is especially interested in this line of work.

The meeting is likely to bear fruit in the fall, when it is probable that many of the churches of Newton will combine and work in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. in enlisting the attention and interest of boys in gymnastic work, for which a competent instructor will be employed. In another summer active measures will be taken to have set aside in the city certain areas for neighborhood playgrounds for which it is felt there is a great need in certain sections of Newton.

BROWN-TAIL POISONING.

Nothing gives such entire satisfaction for relieving the terrible itching and irritation of brown tail moth poisoning and for reducing the inflammation, as Cabot's SULPHO-NAPHTHOL. Physicians and nurses have been most generous in their praise of this meritorious article as it is unequalled for effecting rapid cures. Sulpho-Napthol is also of great value for all insect and reptile poisoning as well as for the many similar afflictions so common during the summer months.

Memorial Service.

A special memorial service, under the auspices of Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R. was held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Channing church. For a half hour previous to that time, Farlow Park was alive with uniformed men and gay with the national colors. Delegations were present from the High school battalion, Co. C. 5th Reg., the Spanish war Veterans, Sons of Veterans and the G. A. R. posts from Brighton, Brookline, Cambridge, Cambridgeport, Waltham, Natick, Needham and full attendance from Charles Ward Post.

Col J. G. White of the Governor's staff represented the state and Mayor Weed and Aldermen Barber, Cabot, Hunt, Baker, Mellen, White, Day and Ensign appeared in behalf of the city. On the platform were seated the orator of the day, President E. H. Capen of Tufts college, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson and other clergymen of the city.

After the veterans had been seated the church choir sang, "When this cruel war is over" followed by the reading of the scripture, prayer and responses and an address of welcome by Rev. Mr. Hudson.

A memorial service specially arranged for the Grand Army was then used, consisting of a salute to the dead and the reading of verses of the scripture by Comrades S. P. Putnam, W. A. Wetherbee and Henry Haynie, each followed by the muffled roll of the drums. An original prayer was said in unison, and the choir sang the "De Profundis."

President Capen said in part: You fought in a momentous conflict, and the years which have succeeded that conflict have been crowded with great events and achievements. These achievements, and that conflict were intimately connected and the events were the product of that conflict. It is impossible to exaggerate the horrors of that war but we cannot forget that great wars have opened the gates, through which mankind has moved to loftier heights of moral perception and nations have come to wider liberty. Rome prepared the way for modern civilization and opened paths for the Christian missionary. The Crusades were the potent influence to dispel darkness from the face of Europe and brought in the sunlight of intellectual liberty.

The marvellous thing about the American people is their achievements in industrial efforts. The war stimulated this wonderful progress. When the shoemakers had gone to war, the wit of man turned to machinery, and where shoes had formerly been made by hand in the little shoe shops in every village, the whole world is now supplied with boots and shoes made in our great factories.

In education equally great advances have been made. While before the war common schools were universal, they had fallen into degradation. The school houses were poor and wretched, deficient in sanitation, and there were but 53 high schools in Massachusetts in the fifties. Vast strides have been made in 40 years so that we now have 263 high schools with 40000 pupils housed in palatial structures, and fully equipped with every facility for educational purposes.

Our colleges find it impossible to keep pace with the demands of the youth in the matter of courses. All this is the result of the intellectual and moral ferment which was the heart of the conflict in which you engaged.

The awakening of a national consciousness was another feature of that war. There had been no previous conception of the power of the nation. The marshalling and maintenance of great armies, a marvellous undertaking, brought home to every citizen the fact that the American nation has tremendous power. The idea of a compact and united nation was born and of the doctrine of state rights not a vestige is left today. We are one nation, with one purpose and one destiny. We are to have an influence also in international affairs. Since Washington's day, the world has shrunk into a little ball, and now we have taken our stand on the carpet of international politics.

You fought primarily to save the Union, but back of the war was the anti-slavery agitation and that war gave a new meaning to the Declaration of Independence. A nobler and purer civil and social order came, purer politics in city, state and nation and finally there came a better estimate of humanity and a deeper sense of the rights of man as a man.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" was then sung by the audience followed by the benediction. Taps was sounded on the bugle and the veterans filed slowly out of the edifice, while the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" were wafted from the organ.

The affair was in the hands of a committee consisting of Commander C. C. Patten, S. V. C. W. T. Shepherd, J. V. C. Henry Haynie, Adj. C. W. Sweetland and Comrades John Flood and Elbridge Bradshaw. The Commander was assisted by Col. R. B. Edes, Major F. P. Barnes, Capt. M. E. Cobb and Chaplain S. R. Moulton.

THE TIME TO SELECT YOUR VACATION HAUNT.

MOUNTAINS, SEASHORE AND LAKE RESORTS.

The trees and foliage are decked in their summer garb, and the perfumed blossoms are beginning to fall; the sun's rays are hotter than a few weeks ago; the ripening and fresh color of spring has deepened into the mellow coat of summer. In another week, perspiring business men will be rushing pell mell for the nearest cooling spot. The beaches will be thronged; and the country and mountain resorts will be preparing for the rush. You are not obliged to swelter under the summer's sun, nor to tread the baked bricks of the city either—at least not on your vacation; and it behooves you to take note of the numerous and varied resorts in Northern New England, and make a selection. Do you like the country and a modern hotel? Do you prefer a quiet, old farmhouse with pictorial surroundings? Do you care to paddle in the ocean or to sun yourself on the sandy beach? Do you desire to hie to mountain tops, to drink in the pure atmosphere of these heights? Do you wish to recline in a peaceful valley of absorbing scenery, where silvery streams and verdant plains make up a vision of pastoral beauty?

You can choose your resort, anything you want in the Boston and Maine's list of resorts, with hotels and rates for 1904. This booklet is something entirely new. It contains a beautiful colored cover and ninety-six pages of interesting descriptive matter, information and illustrations. It will be sent free upon receipt of address, by the Gen. Pass. Dept., B. and M. R. R., Boston.

PUTNAM-DEMSEY.

The wedding of Miss Alice Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Dempsey of Ridge avenue, Newton Centre and Mr. James Bissell Putnam, M. I. T., '01, and son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. B. Putnam of Elmwood street, Newton Centre, took place last Saturday evening at the home of the bride, only the families of the couple being present.

Rev. Dr. E. D. Burr of the Baptist church officiated, and the matron of honor was Mrs. H. G. Chesley of Auburndale, while Mr. Chesley was the best man.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine over white taffeta, trimmed with rose point lace and wore a tulle veil. Mr. and Mrs. Putnam will visit the St. Louis fair on their wedding trip.

Invitations for this wedding had been issued for Wednesday evening June 8th, but on account of the serious illness of the bride's sister they were recalled and the ceremony took place at once.

THAT VACATION OF YOURS.

How you will spend your vacation is a pertinent and important question. It is your wish no doubt to have an outing which will afford complete change of scene and which will send you home thoroughly rested and invigorated. That's the only kind of a vacation worth having and Vermont is the best place to get it. Vermont's attractions include the Green Mountains region, the islands and shores of Lake Champlain and the picturesque Winoski Valley, all on the line of the Central Vermont Ry. Montreal, the Thousand Islands, Niagara Falls and the St. Louis Fair are also reached by the famous Green Mountain Route via White River Junction. Enclose six cents in stamps for new illustrated vacation hand book devoted to Vermont and Lake Champlain; addressing T. Ly Hanley, 300 Washington St., Boston.

ATHLETICS.

On the Cedar street grounds at Newton Centre Saturday afternoon, the first athletic meet between the Auburndale A. C., Commonwealth A. C. of Allston, Holbrook A. C. of Jamaica Plain and Nahant A. C. was won by Auburndale A. C.

It was closely contested throughout and close finishes were the rule in a number of the events. The final number of points at the end of the meet stood as follows: Auburndale A. C., 43; Commonwealth A. C., 35; Holbrook A. C., 27; Nahant A. C., 6. The relay race was one of the most interesting events, and it was only by the hardest work that Auburndale A. C.'s team—Dow, Pluta, Fowle and Lamson—won out.

TO NURSING MOTHERS.

Are you worn out? Tired and completely run down? You have no vitality, no energy. You are nervous, weak, fretful and cry easily.

For just such cases as yours Vin-Tone has been prepared.

It overcomes that tired, weak feeling and puts new energy into body and mind.

Do not be skeptical and refuse to believe what eminent physicians pronounce to be a fact.

And having been convinced of its wonderful strengthening power, they now send it out into the world to do its work among poor weary human beings.

We are glad to be able to print the good news that a remedy has at last been discovered which takes right hold of any worn-out system and builds a foundation to health and happiness.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Mary Leonard Barker to David E. Gould, dated March 10th, A. D. 1895, and recorded with Middlesex Ss. Dist. Deeds, book 3027 page 265, for breach of the condition and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction on the premises described in said mortgage on Saturday, July 2nd, 1904, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the property described in said mortgage deed, to wit:

All my right, share, title, interest and estate, being not less than one undivided third part in and to all the real estate of which Lucy E. Leonard died seized and possessed in the State of Massachusetts, particularly referring to a certain lot of land with the buildings thereon situated in West Newton and being the same premises conveyed to said Lucy E. Leonard by deed from Joseph Stone dated February 16, 1890, and recorded with Middlesex Ss. District Deeds, book 964 page 161. For my title to said premises see Middlesex Probate Docket number 1236.

Said premises will be sold subject to mortgage given by Lucy E. Leonard to Wellfleet Savings Bank and recorded with said Middlesex Ss. District Deeds, book 1100 page 6, on which there now remains due not less than five thousand five hundred dollars and interest, and to unpaid taxes and assessments.

Two hundred dollars will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

Manley and Co and is prepared to promptly fulfill all orders for house, sign and fresco painting graining hardwood finishing, tinting and wallpapering in first class manner and at reasonable prices. He is located at Mr. Manley's former store, 43 Centre street. Estimates furnished freely and promptly.

—In the seventh annual exhibition of oil paintings now being held at the Worcester Art Museum Mr. William M. Paxton contributes his "Girl with the Sea Beyond" which is immensely brilliant. Imagine, in full sunlight, a life size girl in a canary yellow gown and holding up a white parasol, with a blue sea in the background, and this color scheme pushed to the very limit of intensity and brightness. His other work is "The Bride" a two thirds length figure in white, striking in pose and conception.

Annual Drill.

The annual drill and review of the Newton High School battalion is always an interesting occasion and that of last Friday afternoon on the Lowell avenue grounds, Newtonville, was no exception to the rule. The day was fine and there was a large gathering of friends of the youthful soldiers and they testified to their interest by long and prolonged applause at the excellent work of the boys.

Following regimental formation, Maj. F. W. Dearborn in command, the first part of the afternoon was taken up by company competitive drill, companies E, Capt. D. Nicholson, A. Capt. C. G. Hunt, B. Capt. N. S. Hammond, participating. These went through the manual both with and without the numbers and showed considerable proficiency, though the dropping of their hats by several of the privates and officers detracted from their general appearance.

The company competition was followed by the signal corps drill, Lieut. R. W. Brooks commanding. Several messages were successfully wig-wagged back and forth over the field, and several hundred feet of telegraph line was put in operation. For the first time since its formation the corps, in addition to its signal work, went through skirmish drill in extended line, letting fly several volleys from their revolvers at imaginary foes.

Next in order came another company competition, the first on the field, company F (Capt. R. W. Fisher, being the ponies. In spite of their small stature these boys did excellently and illustrated the well known fact that size does not always count in the matter of military tactics. The second company on the field, company C (Capt. D. D. Blampied), was followed by company D (Capt. R. C. March), both of which gave an excellent exemplification of military drill.

Lieut. D. B. Hawley, with a squad of husky artillery boys, reinforced by a light brass howitzer piece, next came dashing into the field, and for 10 minutes the combination did some lively hustling. Blank shot and shell were fired in all directions without respect to age, sex or condition; the piece and its caisson were dismounted and then remounted all in a very few seconds. In fact, the boys handled themselves and artillery like clock work. All the spectators showed their appreciation, even those nervous ones who had been somewhat worried for fear that the boys might forget themselves and put a projectile through the side of one of the nearby houses.

The following number on the program was the individual competition in charge of Regimental Adjutant C. B. Tupper. There were 25 in the squad on its first march out, and so well did they do that when the first round was over but eight were dropped out. Of the 17 who appeared in the second round, however, all did not have their nerves with them, for at its close, the judges weeded out all but six. These six were perfection, and it took a long third round of drilling before the judges were able to select the ones entitled to prizes.

Evening parade, in command of Maj. S. S. Paine, followed, and at its close the prizes of the afternoon were presented by Capt. S. E. Howard to the following companies and individuals:

Company competition—First prize, company D, with sword for Capt. R. C. March and medals for company lieutenants; second prize, silk marker flag, company F.

Individual competition—First prize, gold medal, Sergt. F. M. Green; second, silver medal, 1st Sergt. G. B. March; honorable mention, Sergt. J. S. Benton, Corp. H. D. Billings, Priv. W. M. Schofield.

The judges were: Maj. Francis Meredith, Jr., 5th Infantry, M. V. M.; Lieut. John F. Williams, company F, 5th Infantry, M. V. M.; and Lieut. H. F. Moses, company C, 5th Infantry, M. V. M. Capt. Ernest R. Springer, company C, 5th Infantry, M. V. M., the school drill master had general charge of the field.

Automobile Parade.

The Newton Centre Improvement Association, in connection with their annual Fourth of July celebration, will hold at Newton Centre an open Automobile Parade and open Automobile Obstacle Races.

Parade at 9 a. m., followed by races.

Suitable prizes will be awarded for the finest decorated automobile and for the most grotesque or unique effect in automobile decoration.

Two Auto Obstacle Races will be run, one open to all cars in the single seat, run-about class, the other open to all two-seated cars of any make or weight. Cars to be operated by owners.

Any and all automobiles will be welcome in the parade, but only those paying entrance fee of $1.00 will be eligible for the prizes offered.

Cups have been offered for the parade and races by the Peerless Motor Car Co., The Winton Motor Carriage Co., The White Sewing Machine Co. and The Alden Spence's Sons Co.

HOBART-KIMBALL.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer Rich, 20 Sargent street, Newton Tuesday evening June 7th, when their youngest sister Miss Mabel Howard Kimball and Mr. Edward Hobart of East Bridgewater were united in marriage by Rev. T. Corwin Watkins D. D. of Lasell Seminary, an old time friend and pastor of the bride's family.

At half after seven the bridal party entered the drawing room to the sweet strains from the Lohengrin wedding march played by Hayden's Orchestra. The bride's attendants were Miss Jean and Master Stanley Dorchester, niece and nephew of the bride, and Master William Thayer Rich, Jr., who was ring bearer.

Mrs. Ethel Burnett-Watts and Miss Lillian Smith, both college friends each held one end of the long white ribbon which formed the aisle in which the party walked to meet Dr. Watkins who was standing under a bower of asparagus fern and white roses. The children entered just in front of the bride and groom and carried the ribbons.

The bride was beautiful in white lace over white silk, she wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The groom's gift to his bride was a beautiful diamond star.

Little Miss Dorchester was charming in a white India silk gown. Master Dorchester wore the regulation dress suit for little men and the small son of the house a white pongee Russian blouse suit.

The reception was from 8 to 10 and Mr. and Mrs. Hobart were assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Adams of Northampton and Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer Rich of Newton. The ushers were Mr. Aaron Hobart Latham of Brookline, a cousin of the groom, Mr. Hobart Ames of North Easton, cousin of the groom, Mr. Frances Warren Kimball of Chelsea and Mr. Charles Sylvester Kimball of Newtonville, brothers of the bride.

Although the skies were lowering outside, all was brilliant within. The house and enclosed veranda were beautifully decorated. The drawing room was a bower of beauty, being elaborately trimmed with garlands of asparagus fern and banks of white roses. The halls and stairway were decorated with laurel ropes and ascension lilies and made tropical with potted plants.

Coffee and lemonade were served in the dining room which was arranged with white roses and potted plants. The library was decorated with red and white, the mantles being banked with pinks and large bunches being scattered around the room. A very pleasing feature of the evening was that the wedding supper was served on the enclosed veranda the color scheme here being pink and the center piece was of pink rosebuds.

The guests, numbering over two hundred, were from Philadelphia, New York, Boston, North Easton, Brookline, Chelsea, Harrisburg, California, E. Bridgewater, Wintrop and the Newtons.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Kimball formerly of Brookline and Chelsea. For some years she has made her home in Newtonville with her sister Miss Kimball who was also her guardian. She was graduated from the Newton High School in 1897 and a graduate and post graduate from Wellesley college 1901 and 1902.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hobart of East Bridgewater and a graduate of Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart after a short trip to Quebec will be at home to their friends after July 1st at East Bridgewater.

The bridal couple were the recipients of many beautiful and elegant gifts.

The property is near the Brookline line and is adjacent to the estates of George C. Lee, S. H. Fessenden, R. H. White and others.

The Late Prof. Pettee.

William H. Pettee, professor of mineralogy, economic geology and mining engineering, died at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich., on the evening of May 26. He was born January 18th, 1838, from good old New England stock, being the son of Otis and Matilda (Sherman) Pettee, of Newton Upper Falls, Mass. He graduated with the class of '61 at Harvard, and after securing the degree of Master of Arts in 1864, went to Germany, where he studied in the School of Mines in Freiberg, Saxony. From 1869 to 1875 he was instructor and assistant professor of mining at Harvard. During this period he assisted in the geological survey of California. Professor Pettee married Miss Sibylla Clark of Newton Upper Falls July 18, 1871. He received his appointment at the University of Michigan in 1875 and continued in active service until the last.

In addition to teaching, his time was largely occupied by administrative work, for certain forms of which he had especial aptitude. In the early days of the university the Calendar was edited by the president, who often called on Professor Pettee for assistance, and finally prevailed upon him to take entire charge of this important matter. His success in editing the Calendar bears witness to the accuracy and scrupulous attention to details which characterized all his work. For many years he was secretary of the graduate school, and of a number of important committees. He also rendered valuable assistance in auditing the university accounts. Probably no member of the faculty was more fully acquainted with the university laws, precedents, and traditions of the University, and many difficult questions were referred to him for decision.

In spite of his manifold duties, he was still able to keep abreast with the advances in his chosen branch of science and for many years rendered valuable assistance not only in editing but often in revising the communications which appeared in the transactions of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. His work was of the unostentatious kind, that attracts little attention while it is well performed, but when it ceases is greatly missed.

Socially, Professor Pettee was a delightful companion, with a keen sense of humor, and a fund of good stories. His witty sayings were always directed by his thoughtfulness for others, and however sharp were never known to cut. He made an admirable toastmaster, and often presided at the annual supper at the Unitarian church. He was deeply interested in this organization and for many years was chairman of the board of trustees.

The funeral was held at the residence, 554 Thompson street May 29th at 2:30 o'clock. Following the services the body was taken to Newton, Mass., Prof. Pettee's former home.

The pall bearers were Prof. D'Ooge, Prof. Demmon, Dean Cooley, Dean Hudson, Prof. duPont and Major Soule. Following is a list of the organizations which presented beautiful sets of pieces of flowers: Shield from American Institute of Mining Engineers; Scientific club; faculty of Engineering department; the School of Mines; students of Course III in mineralogy; University Musical society; Unitarian church; Fortnightly club; King's Daughters; Sorosis. There were also many beautiful flowers from numerous friends.

Street Railway Notes

Trolley touring having become an established function of the summer lives of thousands of the people throughout many sections of the country, and particularly throughout the New England states, the establishment of a central Trolley Information Bureau for patrons has followed as a natural sequence. New England, one of the greatest trolley sections of the country, is to have one shortly. It will be located in the Archway, 365 Washington street, Boston, and will be conducted by Robert H. Derrah, who has for the past twelve years made a special study of the pleasure travel by electric through New England.

The Suburban Press Association will hold its June meeting next Monday at Norumbega Park, to which ladies are invited. The members of this Association, which includes the publishers and editors of weekly newspapers in New England will be courteously treated by the street railway and park officials.

A New Church.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the West Newton Unitarian Society was held Monday evening in the church parlors, to discuss the matter of a new church building. Mr. Edwin B. Haskell was elected moderator. The suggestion of a new church to cost $75000 was ably presented by Mr. George Hutchinson and advocated by Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Jaynes, E. B. Haskell and Geo. A. Walton. Remarks were made in opposition by Chas. F. Howland, Geo. H. Ellis and Jas. P. Tolman.

The meeting by a large majority, which was made unanimous, decided to appoint a committee to receive pledges and suggestions regarding the whole matter and to report at a meeting to be held in the fall. The committee consists of E. B. Haskell, J. S. Alley, J. E. Bacon, Lawrence Bond, G. P. Bullard, H. L. Burrage, C. S. Demmon, G. H. Ellis, F. L. Felton, R. S. Gorham, C. P. Hall, Geo. Hutchinson, C. W. Leatherbee, Lawrence Mayo, Elery Peabody, A. S. Pratt, J. P. Tolman, G. A. Walton, J. W. Weeks, Henry Whitmore and J. C. Brimblecom. Pledges to about $33000 were received during the evening.

As the evening marked the twentieth anniversary of the first reception ever given to Rev. Mr. Jaynes by the society, it was observed by an informal reception tendered Mr. and Mrs. Jaynes by the ladies, and the social feature added much to the success of the meeting.

CLUB WOMEN.

Summer Series of Articles on Women's Clubs of Newton.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands.

In 1886 a lady at that time giving her life to whatever was pure and lovely and of good report in Newton Highlands, issued an invitation to be read publicly in church, requesting those ladies who were interested in the social, religious and literary welfare of the place, to meet her at her residence the following Monday afternoon. This was the initial proceeding which resulted in forming the Monday Club of Newton Highlands. Women's clubs of course had come into existence before this time. This effort, however, so far as is known, was a pioneer movement in one respect, namely, it embodied a plan to give to busy wives and mothers the advantages of club life without their encroaching on time rightly belonging to their families; demanding as the club then did, only work of such amount and such character as could be done in a satisfactory manner by women whose time for club work was limited.

The Monday Club has been an evolution. During the first years of its existence Mrs. Phipps, the lady at whose invitation the club first met, conducted the meetings as she had previously conducted the meetings of a Chautauqua Circle in Newton Highlands. There was then no constitution, board of officers, nor admittance fee for the club. All ladies in Newton Highlands without respect to creed or color, race or religion, were welcomed to membership, the only condition being willingness to do the work assigned. The real object of the club was to broaden and brighten the lives of the members, to increase their capacity for the more abundant life, and by means of this larger life of the club members to reach the homes represented in the club, thereby bettering the social, civic and spiritual life of Newton Highlands.

The spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak attitude of some members of the club then unaccustomed to the sound of their own voices in a meeting, is now remembered with satisfaction on account of its great contrast to the present ease and precision with which these same ladies now present their work in the Monday Club. Meetings were held once a week from October till June, on Monday afternoons at the houses of members. These meetings were always called to order punctually at half past two, and were in session till five o'clock, the ladies usually bringing their sewing. The subject studied the first year was Boston. During the first hour of the session some subdivision of this general topic was presented by ladies of the club; for example The History of Boston, Its Statuary, Parks and Squares, Benevolent Institutions, Educational Institutions, Government of Boston, Boston's Water Supply, Boston's Great Men, Boston's Great Women. From half past three till four the time was spent socially, during this time God's pure air was freely admitted to our rooms for our inspiration and uplifting both socially and spiritually and from four till five o'clock current topics were presented by the members, each lady being responsible for searching for fresh items to present to the club on such topics as Civil Service Reform, Missionary and Church News, Labor Matters, Inventions and Discoveries, Important State Bills, Important National Bills, Art Items.

The club grew in numbers and in inspirational power. Fifteen ladies responded to the invitation to the meeting at which the club was formed; soon the question to be considered was the seating capacity of the houses opened for the reception of the club. From time to time various persons of distinction addressed the club, bringing to the members and also to their invited guests, not only enlargement of vision but also inspiration for duty, and for the larger life. In those early days the club had luncheons, teas and celebrations, at which stories, quotations, personal experiences, and sometimes original songs were features in which we took much satisfaction. We also had outings to places of local interest, to museums, educational institutions and to historic places; for all this was before the time of organized historic pilgrimages, and before guides to historic places were obtainable in this vicinity. All in all, in those years of beginnings, we felt as if growing and insistent life feels, that existence was a joy. This sense of inspiration and exultation really came to the lives of the members of the club, because of the existence in the club of that responsiveness of spirit which created confidence, good will and love centered among the members of the club.

After seven years of such life as has been hastily reviewed, having all grown into that strength which only comes from being tested by the years, the Monday Club realized that the time had come for a more formal organization, with a board of officers, various committees, a written constitution and bylaws, and for its business to be conducted with a parliamentary procedure more worthy of a body of its size, and possessing its vitality and conscious potency in the community. The club now issues a yearly calendar containing lists of officers and members, a copy of its constitution and bylaws, and also the plan of work with the dates and places of the meetings. At present the limit of club membership is sixty. The club is full with a waiting list. The annual fee is two dollars. The presidents of the club in their order of service, have been Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps, Mrs. Ann M. Cobb, Mrs. G. Augustus Nickerson, Mrs. Harriet E. Shaw, Mrs. Minerva Stone and Mrs. Retta W. Wetherbee. Mrs. Annie I. Eaton was chosen president at our last election.

The time came when the club realized that neither life for itself, nor for the homes represented in the club, nor for Newton Highlands, was all that the Monday Club's existence should mean, but that there were duties to be done by, and privileges to be granted to clubs working together. The Monday Club therefore joined the Newton City Federation of Women's Clubs. Similar reasons induced the club to join the State Federation of Women's Clubs. With both organizations it is still connected.

The Monday Club has been in existence eighteen years.

While the studies of the Club have been on various subjects, political subjects in a partisan sense, and religious subjects in a denominational sense, have been avoided by common consent. The studies have been on various general subjects such as literature, art, progress, different countries, various authors and their writings, education, current topics, history and travel. Whatever the subject, however, the aim of keeping in touch with modern questions of life and experience, has been reached to a large extent. The Monday Club has from time to time secured to itself the advantage of the teaching of experts in certain lines of study. Mr. Charles Malloy conducted for the club a series of studies of Emerson's works which it is always satisfactory to recall. Mr. George of the English department of the Newton High School was for several months our guide to the study of Tennyson's In Memoriam, imparting to the club great reverence for the power and insight of the poet with sincere and abiding appreciation of Tennyson's contribution to human uplifting. Mr. George's work with the club included comparisons with the works of other great poets than the poet under immediate consideration. When the subject of club study was Germany, with Frau Littell of Cambridge as instructor, we took lessons in German literature, laying foundations for continued study of Lessing, Goethe, Schiller and the Romantic School. Mrs. Thorpe, our own club member, gave zest to our study of Browning's shorter poems, both by her readings and her interpretations. Mrs. Shaw, another club member, conducted our studies in the Greek stories and their significance.

Lectures, both entertaining and instructive, always have been a distinct feature of the Monday Club life. Governor Bates spoke to the club on "The General Court of Massachusetts"; H. H. Sprague, president of the Massachusetts Senate, presented the subject of "The Australian Ballot System"; Ezekiah Butterworth interested the club in his "Trip to the Andes" and also in "Lowell as a Poet"; Rev. Mr. Phipps addressed the club on "The Poetry of Stephen Phillips" and on "Kaddish the Indian Shakespear"; Rev. Mr. Van Ness on "Tolstoi"; Rev. Dr. Griffin on "Holland"; Miss L. A. Smith on "The Legal Condition of Women who Hold Property in Massachusetts"; Mrs. Livermore, Rev. E. P. Porter, Miss O. M. E. Rowe, Mrs. E. S. P. Ward, Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead, Miss Heloise Hersey, Mrs. B. M. Gosse, Mrs. May Alden Ward, Miss Ellen Mitchell, Mrs. Wilma Moore and many other lecturers have spoken to us for our profit and inspiration.

We have held most interesting discussions in the club on such subjects as "Resolved that Free Trade should exist between the United States and her Colonies"; "Is the Literature of today Deteriorating?"; "Resolved that Public Opinion is Responsible for the Moral Atmosphere of the Stage."

Occasionally the dramatic element in the club has been in evidence, as when "The Trial of Mary Queen of Scots" was enacted; "A Day in Cranford" was also produced by the club. One afternoon the club resolved itself into an old fashioned district school, and on another occasion "She Stoops to Conquer" was presented by members of the club.

"The hallowed melody of magic song" has often enlivened our meetings, not only as illustrations of our study of the oratorio, the sonata, and the symphony, and as illustrations of our study of the works of various composers, but also we have been singularly fortunate in having in our membership and in their friends trained musicians who have added greatly to the attractiveness and inspiration of our meetings by consenting to use their good gifts for the benefit of the club. A chorus was formed for one club function. "Illustrations of the Work of Modern Composers" on one occasion, and of

"Scottish Songs" at another time, were presented to the club by Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles.

The social side of life in the Monday Club has by no means been neglected. Besides the afternoon recess which is still social, afternoon teas, and evening entertainments still characterize the life of the club. Some of these social entertainments have been unique. When the general subject of study in the club was Mexico, we had a real Fiesta Mexicana at which Mexican coffee, Chia, and Tamales were served. When Germany was the subject studied, the hall one evening by the help of evergreens and hunting in German colors, German flus and German music, was converted into a veritable German pleasure garden. Small tables among the evergreens each served by a Fraulein, were resorted to by those who wished to refresh themselves with German viands, and we had a German by birth, Rev. Mr. Wendte, to speak to us. Gentlemen's nights occasionally have been observed by festive functions not in the usual order of club life; for example, at the Newton Club House, on one occasion, when a magazine published by the club, was read by the individual contributors; on a similar occasion when "An Old Home Week" was celebrated. Halloween parties also, both unique and festive have been given by the club from time to time.

The work of the club for human living has not wholly been done by the silent uprisings of the caterpillar and better by personal effort, aspiration, and contact with larger life. The altruistic motive from the first has been a dominant force in the life and work of the club. Money has been given and books have been sent for educational work in the South and the West. "The Via Dolorosa" was donated to a church by the club. More than once has money been appropriated from the club treasury for decorating the Grammar School in Newton Highlands. Aid also has been given to the New England Hospital, the Charity Hospital and the Newton District Nursing Association. A Bird Afternoon was lately a Monday Club donation to the children of Newton Highlands.

Thus the Monday Club has gone on to achieve the broader, brighter and better life. Step by step the members have worked together to get a greater knowledge and appreciation of what there has been and is in the world, each member, by the efforts and achievements of other members, having received incentives to farther reading, study, and enrichment of her life. The actual work done in the club life, has indeed been proportioned to the time, zeal and enthusiasm put into that work by the individual; greater in some instances, less in others; in either case the value of the club to the individual having been realized largely in holding the individual to her work, and in keeping her enthusiasm for it aflame. For there is no royal road to club achievement. Society is emerging from the era of individualism. The principles of co-operation, co-operation and solidarity are being applied in ever widening areas, and they are gaining remarkable hold on the spirits of thinking, working humanity. Any hope of emergence from the times blind worship of force, from its calm conviction of magisterial authority in matters of belief, and from its easy disregard of the moral sense, lies in directions such as the Woman's Club movement has followed. That the Monday Club of Newton Highlands has had part in this more ideal life, and in this hope of human betterment, is occasion for devout gratitude. The consciousness of being part of the grand whole in the development of this larger, better, more divine life, is the consciousness of the members of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands.

A GREAT LECTURE.

The entrancing story of "The Early Christian Heroes" will be given by Mr. Herbert Booth, son of General William Booth of London, England, in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands on Saturday, June 18 at 8 o'clock. This great discourse will be illustrated by life model and motion pictures all of which were made especially for this lecture. They are all original, and do not exist elsewhere, as Mr. Booth holds all the negatives. It is a rare treat to listen to Mr. Booth as well as to look at the pictures conceived by his artistic genius. Of this lecture the Cleveland World says: "These scenes have made a sensation everywhere," while the Sydney Herald, N. S. W. remarks: "Far more impressive than anything ever produced by the great Dore." This lecture was given for 55 consecutive nights to very large audiences in the leading churches of New York City last summer.

Rev. Louis Albert Banks of New York City said "This lecture is the most splendid of its kind I have ever seen. It cannot fail to fascinate any audience." Dr. William Barton, pastor of First Cong. Church, Oak Park, Chicago, said "The pictures are very vivid and life-like. I cannot too highly recommend it." Tickets are 25c and are on sale at J. H. Green's Drug store, Newton Highlands and of Mr. Corey at the R. R. station, Newton Highlands and of Mr. Hiltz at Eliot station.

Auburndale.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hemmenway of Rowe street have gone to Hull for the summer season.

—Mrs. C. A. Richards and Miss Annie Louis Richards are making their annual visit at the Woodland Park Hotel.

—Mr. William Austin of Melrose street is back from a trip to California. Mrs. Austin has returned from Portsmouth, N. H.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Kirke Corey of Commonwealth avenue intend spending the summer months in Great Britain and Ireland. They will sail Tuesday, June 21st, on the Saxonia.

—Dr. Arthur S. Cooley of Central street will sail from New York on Tuesday June 21st, with a party of teachers for his annual tour to Greece and Italy. The party will sail for Naples by the Pantheon of the Campania line.

BOSTON.

WILL RE-OPEN IN ITS NEW BUILDING, SEPT. 6, 1904.

This school now has the most elegant, complete and extensive private school building in America. In the planning and furnishing of its NEW BUILDING expense has not been considered even in the minutest detail. New fittings of special design will be found in every part of the building. The entire outfit of the school in its old building has been sacrificed that the school in the new home might have only the newest and best obtainable.

The only feature recognizable will be the able and experienced corps of teachers who have given this school its wide spread reputation. The tuition fees are the same as during the previous years, and pupils who contemplate attending may congratulate themselves that this year was the chosen time for their commercial course and the finishing of their school work.

COURSE OF STUDY.

No course of study prepares pupils thoroughly for all the duties of the counting-room. Book-keeping (by any system); Stenography (Graham and Pitman systems); English Composition; Commercial Correspondence; Commercial Law; Commercial Geography; Commercial Handwriting; Typewriting; Civil Service (preparation for examination); Normal School Course (preparation for teaching).

Pupils will find the location of the school most accessible from all points; over 400 cars daily, with a stopping place directly in front of the school building.

No agents, solicitors or canvassers are employed by this institution.

GOOD WORK.

By the passage of an act in the closing moments of the Legislature,
this city has won a contest which has been waged for several sessions of that interesting body. We refer to the reapportionment of the assessment for the use and maintenance of metropolitan water. The former basis
was that of population and valuation,
the new basis is population and consumption. While the new apportionment is estimated to save this city
some $4000 on its annual payment
the recognition of the principle upon which it is founded is of far more importance.

Heretofore there has been a premium
placed upon the reckless use of water,
as it was to be supplied freely to every city or town in the district. By this method the authorities were not obliged to scrutinize the amount consumed and after a very few years
there were fears that the supply would not be large enough. A large extension was authorized and even then the danger of an under supply was threatening. The new basis will necessarily place the local authorities on their guard, as they will be assessed upon the amount of water consumed within their territory, and it is fair to assume that all of those cities and towns will shortly adopt a meter system, which has proved so salutary in this city.

While therefore, Newton has been saved a considerable annual sum by the new law, the state has undoubtedly been saved an expenditure of many millions, which would otherwise have been used for an extension of its water supply.

GOOD MEN.

The representatives from this city to the Senate and House of the recent General Court have done excellent work both for Newton and for the larger interests of the state. Senator Dana who had made a splendid reputation in the House has added to his laurels in the higher body and stands
an excellent chance for its presidency next year. Mr. Warren by his devoted attention to the work of the important Ways and Means Committee, has become an authority in matters of state finance, while Mr. Lowell has surprised his friends with his first years
work as a legislator.

The interests of Newton demand that all of these gentlemen shall be returned to the General Court of next year.

WARD-WARD.

Miss Helen Ashton Ward, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ward of Crescent avenue, Newton Centre, was married to Mr. Paul Theodore Bliss Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Langdon S. Ward, last evening at her home at 7 o'clock. Rev. Edward M. Noyes, pastor of the First Congregational Church officiated, assisted by Rev. Frank G. Woodworth of Toulgalo, Miss.

The bride was attended by Miss Alice G. Ward of Newton Centre as maid of honor and the Misses Ruth P. Ward of New York, Laura D. Ward of Amherst Mass., Amy A. Woodworth
of White Plains, N. Y. and Bessie S.
Woodworth of Toulgalo, Miss. as bridesmaids. Dr. Edwin St. J. Ward of Newton Centre was the best man and Messrs Mark H. Ward, William,
E. D. Ward of Amherst, Almy H.
Carter of Woburn, Chas. W. Williams of Boston, Fred R. Hayward of Newton Highlands and Rev. Robert N.
Fulton of Littleton, Mass., were the ushers.

The procession which moved to the strains of music performed by personal friends of the bride, Miss Marion Morse and Mr. F. R. Hayward at the piano and Miss May Colburn and Mr. Frank Hurter on violins, consisted of the bridesmaids, maid of honor, the flower girl, Helen Ward Field of Lowell, and the bride
in her father's arm.

A reception followed until 9 o'clock, attended by the many friends of these popular young people. The house was beautifully decorated with wild flowers arranged by Miss Elizabeth Hurter of Hyde Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside at 135 Forest street, Medford, where they will be at home after Sept. 1st.

Newton Club.

Plus scores at duplicate whist
Monday evening were made by M. O.
Rice and W. W. Palmer 2 1/2, J. C.
Ostrup and E. S. Burbank 2, W. E.
Hickox and F. A. Wilcox 1 1/2, J. F.
Humphrey and H. R. Nash 1 1/2.

JENKINS-BROWN.

The beautiful Channing church was completely filled last Wednesday evening by the friends gathered to witness the wedding of Miss Grace Evelyn Brown, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Emerson Brown of Hollis street
and Mr. Howard William Jenkins, son of the late William L. Jenkins of Newton.

The church was decorated with palms and cut flowers in honor of the occasion and Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, the minister, officiated.

The bride who is a favorite in Newton society, looked charming in a gown of white crepe de chine over white silk, embroidered with net
lace, and she wore a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of brides roses.
She was escorted to the chancel by her brother, Mr. Porter Emerson
Brown, who gave her away. Mr.
and Mrs. William Curtis Bowditch of Newton were the best man and matron of honor, Mrs. Bowditch wearing white peau de cene with duchess lace and a white silk girdle and carrying red roses.

Miss Marjorie Brown of Newton, sister of the bride, Miss Alta G. Jenkins of Boston, sister of the groom,
and Miss Helen Louise Wilson of Newton Centre, all attired in blue silk muslin with silk girdles, and carrying pink roses, were the bridesmaids.

Dr. Chas. N. Piper of Boston, and Messrs Robert D. Holt, Arthur F.
Pote of Newton and Harold D. Greeley of Cambridge were the ushers.

A largely attended reception followed until 10 o'clock at the residence of the bride on Hollis street, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins being assisted in receiving by Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs.
Meriam, Mrs. Bowditch and the bridesmaids.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will make an extended wedding trip to St. Louis, Washington, Baltimore and other cities.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

The Annual Outdoor Festival of St.
Peter's Parish, Cambridge, which is now looked upon as one of the events of the season, will be held on the grounds of the Rectory, corner of Concord Avenue and Buckingham Street, on Saturday, June 25th. For weeks large committees have been actively preparing the entertainment
to be provided for the great throng
of people who will be anxious to be participants in this year's festival.
The usual accessories of such a festival have been secured. There will be a merry-go-round to delight the children, an African dodger, a shooting gallery, a fish pond and many other means of entertainment. The forms of entertainment will be varied enough to meet the tastes of each and all. Refreshments will be served from booths erected within the grounds and presided over by ladies of the parish.
This year the management has been especially fortunate in securing the presence of Father Chidwick,
who was chaplain of the battleship Maine, and who afterwards spent two years of service in the Philippines.
He will deliver the address of the occasion at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, taking for his subject, "The Friar Question in the Philippines."
The grounds will be beautifully illuminated in the evening with arc lights and thousands of Chinese and Japanese lanterns. The Huron Avenue cars pass directly by the grounds, and free transfer to these cars may be had from cars passing through Harvard Square.

Norumbega Park

Norumbega Park—Monday afternoon's performance in the woodland theatre opened the third week of the season at this park and among the list of talent included in the Cosmopolitans is the team of Klein, Ott Brothers and Nickerson, who give a grotesque musical act of both vocal and instrumental selections. A unique gymnastic exhibition is given by the Vedmars who are athletes of a high order of excellence. Dickson and Holmes won instant favor by the pleasing manner in which they presented many vocal selections both popular and classical. An important feature of this program is the comedy conversational sketch given by Kinnette and Patterson, full of wit and bright repartee. The Topsy Turvy Trio present a one act play, entitled "O'Dowd from Cohoes." The Komgraph was enthusiastically greeted and there are many moving pictures of odd and sensational subjects presented by it.

Golf.

The extraordinary record score of 73
made on the Albemarle Golf course last year by J. W. Smith was approximated Monday by William Hickox, Jr., who made the 18 holes in 73
and 41. On the same day Smith made a 77. Hickox's score stands as the record for this year.

High School Notes.

The Newton High School Golf Team played its last match of the season Saturday, June 12 when it met and defeated the team from Volkman
School on the links of the Oakley Country Club. This match completed a series of twelve, in all of which the Newton boys were victorious. The team which was won by last year's team becomes the permanent possession of the school, and for the winning team of next year's competition
the league has decided to offer a shield.

David R. Manning of the Newton
Golf Club, and vice president of the Greater Boston Intercollegiate Golf Association, has captained the team successfully for the last two years and also played first man. Wm. Hickox, Jr., second man is one of the best players of the Albemarle Club of Newtonville, and has played a star game for Newton. Malcolm Stanton, third, won the championship of the N. H. S. this spring. Robert H.
Manning, the freshman member of the team can always be relied upon to hold his own. Langdon Coffin, fifth, is a consistent player, and during the past season won 8 out of 9 matches played. J. W. Smith, J. F.
Leary and P. O'Donnell played in several matches and won all their matches.

R. H. Manning is the only member of this year's team who will remain in school next year and be able to play on that team.
The next event of importance in intercollegiate golf circles is the 2nd annual championship to be held the beginning of July at the links of the Country Club of Brookline.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached to the graduating class of the high school at the Universalist church, Washington park, Newton-ville, by Rev. Albert Hammatt, June 26th at 10:45.

ALLEN SCHOOL ALUMNI.

The annual reunion of the Alumni Association of what is known as the
"Allen School" took place Wednesday evening at the North Gate Club house on Waltham street, West Newton.

President Chas. E. Hatfield was in charge and the program included some personal reminiscences of the late Nathaniel T. Allen, by Messrs Edwin
B. Haskell and George A. Walton. A farcical civil service examination, conducted by Mr. Hatfield was the occasion of considerable fun and a monologue by Mr. Waldo Glidden was very much enjoyed. Refreshments and dancing followed.

These officers were elected: president, Charles E. Hatfield; secretary, Miss Marianna P. Smith; treasurer,
Edward C. Burrage; executive committee Eugene F. Fay, Dr. Edwin B.
Neilson, George D. Davis, Geo. R.
Pulsifer, Mrs. Alice A. Gould and Miss Elizabeth P. Thurston.

Mural Decoration.

Mr. William F. Purscher of Thurston road, Newton Upper Falls, whose artistic achievements in Mural Decoration have gained him a widespread reputation throughout the United States, is now established at 381 Boylston Street, Boston, and has taken into his employ, the staff of the late Henry A. Turner Company of West street.

In the homes of many Western and Southern millionaires, Mr. Purscher's work may be seen, notable among them, perhaps, being the palatial residence of Mr. L. J. Pettit, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, whose magnificent ball room, with its wonderful frescoes
on ceiling and walls, truthfully depicts the triumph of decorative Art.

But a few among numerous Western residences are the homes of Mrs. C.
H. Conover and Mrs. F. O. Londer,
the latter the daughter of George M.
Pullman, the palace car manufacturer;
Mr. W. D. Van Dyke of Milwaukee, and ex-Governor Francis of St.
Louis.

The beautiful southern home of Mr. G. W. Watts, the millionaire tobacco grower of Durham, N. C. contains some very fine work, as does also Dreamworld Hall, the noted summer abode of Mr. Thomas W. Lawson at North Scituate.

Mr. Purscher, in his new establishment, will combine the importation of upholstery fabrics and the making of fine furniture with his own exceptional branch of interior decoration.

WABAN SCHOOL.

Waban school closed, with graduating exercises on Tuesday, the most successful year of its history. On Sunday afternoon the principal preached the commencement sermon from the James 1-27. His theme was "Religion the normal attitude of the soul."

On Monday afternoon, the Annual Field Day occurred. Six medals were offered for the contests. The senior prizes were awarded as follows: Kenneth Faulkner, of Malden, first, David Head, of Boston, second and Lemuel
Sinclair, of Phippsburg, Me., third.
The junior prizes were awarded to Clifford Mackenzie, of Boston, first, Morrell Mackenzie, of Boston, second,
and Porter Collins of Philadelphia,
third.

The graduating exercises were held on Tuesday morning, with an address by Rev. William Hall Williams, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, at Waban. His subject was the "Battle of Life."

Diploma was given to William Robinson Pillsbury, the son of the principal who graduates with high honors,
and will enter Wesleyan University in advanced standing in the fall.

"Singles" tournament. Classes A and B will play as in the first.

—The present term closes the most prosperous year of the Waban school.
The growth since it came under the new management has been steady,
every year exceeding the previous.
The graduates of the school have in nearly every case entered college in advanced standing and none has failed to pass his college examinations on work done in the school.
During the summer the buildings will be remodelled and accommodations provided for an increased number of pupils, the present quarters having become insufficient.

At the Churches.

PROBATE COURT.

MIDDLESEX, ss.
To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Lucinda Black, late of Newton in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Arthur E. Allen, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named,
without giving a surety on his official bond.
You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate
Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the fifth day of July, A. D. 1904, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why
the same should not be granted.
And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HANES J. McLESTER, Esquire,
first Judge of said Court, this sixteenth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and four.

W. E. ROGERS, Asst. Register.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by William J. Gam-
son of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to Isaac R. Stevens, dated Dec. 1, 1880 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 202, page 55, on account of a breach contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on Tuesday, July 12, 1904 at nine o'clock in the forenoon (9 A. M.), a certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon,
situated in that part of Newton in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts called Newton Highlands, and being lot numbered thirteen (13) on a Plan of Land in Newton Highlands belonging to G.
W. Nason, made by Garrett A. Wood dated August 25, 1887 and duly recorded, and bounded as follows: Southerly by Adams avenue ninety-two and 95-100 (92-95)
feet; southwesterly by lot numbered fourteen (14) on said plan one hundred thirty-eight and 54-100 (138-54) feet; northerly by land of the City of Boston one hundred sixty-six and 72-100 (166-72) feet. Containing 6279 square feet of land. Said premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes and asessments thereon.

TERMS: $200 cash at the time and place of sale, and balance on delivery of the deed.

Building A Church.

A meeting full of significance was held Monday evening in the Unitarian Chapel at West Newton.

Ostensibly, this gathering was for the purpose of discussing the advisability of building a new meeting house for the use of the Society. Incidentally, it was the twentieth anniversary of the building of a church. Just a score of years ago last Monday evening the Rev. Julian C. Jaynes became the pastor of the Unitarian Society which, according to the evidence of one competent to judge, had been struggling along most of the time since its establishment. The Society took this young architect, fresh from his studies, and placed him over its destinies. That day began the building of a church. Into the structure have gone nearly a thousand sermons, filled with the best products of a vigorous, well balanced and well stored mind. A mind well adapted for the age in which it has worked, and to which it has been consecrated. A mind that has neither rummaged in the "unrelenting past," or thrust itself into the "unborn future," but a mind that has made the most of this present, bringing to the worshippers the untainted truth of an unfettered brain.

The builder has painted the windows of the church which he has been building, with the bright pictures of a healthy imagination, and colored the walls with the warmth of a loving and faithful heart. He has, with the help of his associate architect, lifted into the tower of the structure a sweet chime of bells that has never sounded a discordant tone, and has brought joy and gladness into many a home. By his uplifting words and helping hand he has banded his workers together so that as one they have labored in unison.

All the while that this architect has been laboring to erect this spiritual temple, he has been hring the hearts of his people to do wondrous things in the world of needs and necessities. They have given to unnumbered charities until the society has given and grown, from an insignificant mite in the denomination, to become the fourth Unitarian Church in the world.

"And the Lord said unto him; I have hallowed this house, which thou has built to put my name there forever; and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually."

Y. M. C. A.

The annual gathering of the boys' department of the Newton Y. M. C. A. will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. John Earle the chairman of the boys' committee with his colleagues have prepared a fine program. The ladies will provide something for the "inner boy".

Mr. J. N. Pendleton who for 2 1/2 years has been connected with the Newton Y. M. C. A. leaves next week for Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, to attend the Association Summer school and conferences which are held at that beautiful lake from June 15 to September 15. Next fall he enters the training school in Chicago to study for the secretaryship.

A party of boys under the leadership of the general secretary expect to go to Camp Durrell during July. Most of the boys who go will be Y. M. C. A. members but any Newton boys who would like to join the party can do so. Camp Durrell is located on an island off the coast of Maine and is an ideal place for a boys camp. It is the state camp of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Newton Cemetery.

The annual meeting of the Newton Cemetery Corporation was held in the chapel of the cemetery on the 11th inst. The grounds were never in better condition. The restored beauty of the ponds justifies the expenditure for a water plant made two or three years ago. While the corporation does not do business to make money its finances show a somewhat improved condition. The Perpetual Care Fund now amounts to $145,000 and the income from it is quite an important factor in paying the current expenses. The increase in this fund during the last year was a little over $5000, of which $1750 was paid in to apply to old lots. Some two hundred lots are still without the perpetual care provision, and the owners are earnestly advised to put it on their lots if possible, as families are liable to be separated or to move away. The debt of the corporation consists of $40,000 in the form of coupon notes. The sinking fund for their payment, for which $2500 is set aside each year, is now $8000. The effort of the trustees is to make income meet expenses, while keeping the cemetery in excellent condition. It is gratifying to know that it has been awarded the first place among rural cemeteries by the Association of Cemetery Superintendents. The number of interments during the year was 192. Number of lots sold 28. Whole number of lot owners to date 1675.

The cemetery is a credit to Newton. It is of as much interest to Newton people as the churches, the schools or the streets. In its beautiful grounds the forms of our loved ones repose, and its well kept lawns and varied landscapes are delightfully restful to visitors.

The following were elected trustees: Warren P. Tyler, Edwin B. Haskell, E. M. Fowle, Edward I. Pickard, George Frost, C. F. Eddy, Francis Murdock, E. H. Mason, Chas. W. Ross. Mr. Tyler has been on the board 39 years and Mr. Haskell 30 years. The trustees organized by electing for president, Edwin B. Haskell; vice president, Warren P. Tyler; secretary and auditor, Edwin M. Fowle; treasurer and supt., H. W. Ross; assistant superintendent, Nils Mattson.

At the Theatres

Tremont Theatre—The summer season at the Tremont is now on in earnest, for the heavy daperies and other decorations in the theatre suggestive of the winter season have been removed, the air-cooling apparatus has been remodelled, and the summer scale of prices is in effect. "Woodland," Henry W. Savage's fantasy of the forest, which has been playing at that theatre for eight successive weeks, is a genuine summer opera in every detail. Both scenes are laid in the heart of the forest, and all of the characters represent birds. Mr. Luders' music throughout the entire score is in thorough accord with the theme of the opera. The Tremont's capacity is tested at almost every performance, and "Woodland" is sure to duplicate the success that has attended its predecessors, "Prince of Pilsen" and "Peggy from Paris." Seats are selling four weeks in advance.

Keith's Theatre—Coming to Keith's the week of June 20 are the following well-known vaudeville entertainers: Will H. Murphy and Blanche Nichols in a new burlesque entitled "From 'Zaza' to 'Uncle Tom,'" which is to be presented with special scenery, and is pronounced by critics everywhere as one of the amusing of the later day contributions to the variety; the Empire quartet, a noted organization of vocalists and comedians; Lavine and Cross, hand-to-hand balancers and physical culture exponents; Conroy and McDonald, favorite Irish dialect comedians and dancers; Spencer Kelly, the widely known baritone singer, and Madison and Bailey, eccentric comedians, whose hodge-podge of specialties cannot be given a trifle. An entire change of selections will be played by the Fadettes woman's orchestra whose delightful concerts will be given at approximately the same hours, and all the pictures shown in the biograph will be new.

Quiet in Travelling.

Editor of the Graphic: If there be one comfort in traveling via the railway it is to reach one's car and quietly await the departure of the train. The tired citizen needs repose, comfort, not noise, not useless noise. If there is any neglect on the part of the Boston and Albany officials it is in allowing the hired boys, offshoots from the periodical shops of the Terminal station, to wander through the cars crying the names of this or that literary ware, for the sole profit of the hirer of the privilege. Only three days ago I had with other patrons to hear the twangy, metallic voices of the vendors in unusual loud voice crying a periodical. Actually, three boys on this one small train of three cars, passed through four times in the space of seven minutes waiting. As one boy left the rear door another appeared at the front door of the car, all using the same language peculiar to a certain monthly magazine. Now this discomfort to travellers may be of profit to some party, but ninety in 100 dislike it. The open stands and station furnish the opportunity for a traveller to buy any and all periodicals and news papers and it is superfluous begging of the public to allow hawking in the cars. The people on the route of the Circuit particularly can readily buy of the stand in their own district at end of trip, and thus patronize home industry. Some of these boys are of extremely harsh voice. I am told the party that runs the stands select just such twangy voiced youth in preference to the Italian soft modulated quality. This is truly a source of annoyance and if the B. & A. desire to hold from the electric rail their fair share of traffic they must modify that which is annoying. I ask what is the object of the news stands in the station, if another corps of subalterns is to go the rounds of the cars to cry the same wares? And now fellow sufferers you have one weapon of defence to prevent all this, i. e. do not purchase anything hawked or peddled in the cars of the B. & A. Go to the Grand Stand. Consider others comfort. And be wise, ye that are in authority. Written in behalf of many complainants who often have to tread upon the hawkers to get to the car seats.

Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R.

Hoping for one of those typical June days which begin to seem almost like a dream, this Chapter planned to hold a lawn party the afternoon of June 9th on the attractive grounds of Mrs. J. H. Sanborn's home, Newton Centre, but the clerk of the weather this season is utterly regardless of weddings, graduations, commencements and lawn parties. The lowering sky and cold east wind forbade enjoyment of out door festivities. The hostess graciously opened the house to her guests, offering a cheering welcome in the bright decorations of flags and bunting tastefully arranged about the veranda and grounds. During the afternoon a short program was arranged and presented by Mrs. F. T. Benner, Chapter Historian, consisting of music for the flute and piano, finely rendered by Mrs. Church and Miss Kimberly; a bright account of the proceedings of the General Society D. R., during convention week in Boston in May written by Mrs. White; short stories and puzzling conundrums told by Miss Whiting, Miss Wheeler, Miss Mellen, Miss Wells, Mrs. Howe, amusing original verses by Mrs. Warren; some original historical riddles by Mrs. Sampson, and a stirring response to the toast The Sarah Hull Chapter, given by the Regent, Mrs. F. E. Stanley. Refreshing dainties were served and the members and their friends carried away very pleasant memories of the occasion and of the generous hospitality of the hostess. Among the special guests were Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz, State Regent, Mrs. Caroline P. Heath, Ex-Regent, Mrs. Holbrook, State Registrar.

FLAG DAY OUTING.

Fortunately the weather proved more auspicious for the Flag Day Outing of the Chapter on Saturday, June 11th. A large and merry party of thirty-six (including some members of the Caleb Stark Chapter Junior Sons and Daughters) left Newton about nine a. m. going by trolley to Southboro. They then inspected Deerfoot Farm, visited St. Mark's School, when they were cordially received by Dean Thayer and his wife, and shown through these fine school buildings and extensive grounds. They then drove to Mr. Sawin's Home, again were hospitably welcomed and much enjoyed their box lunch on the pleasant piazzas, where they were served with ice cream and coffee by the hosts. A delightful ride through Southboro followed, seeing some beautiful residences, the largest elm in eastern Massachusetts with its wide-spreading branches, and visited the high dam connected with the Metropolitan Water Works. By this time they were ready for the electric car ride home after a day full of enjoyment.

New Superintendent.

At a special meeting of the School Committee held last Tuesday evening Frank E. Spaulding, superintendent of schools at Passaic, N. J., was elected superintendent of the Newton schools with a salary of $4000. Mr. Spaulding will enter upon his duties Sept. 1.

Mr. Spaulding is a graduate of Amherst, 1891, and was instructor at the Louisville, Ky. military institution from 1889 to 1890. In 1890-1 he was assistant principal and instructor at this institution. From 1891 to 1894 he was in Europe and studied in the universities of Leipzig, Paris and Berlin, and in the latter year received the degree of Ph. D. from Leipzig. In 1894-95 he was honorary fellow in psychology and pedagogy at Clark University, Worcester.

Mr. Spaulding was appointed superintendent of schools of Ware in 1895 and remained there until 1897, when he was appointed to a similar position in Passaic, N. J. He is highly indorsed by prominent educators.

VACATION IN THE COUNTRY.

VERMONT EAST COAST TO THE FRONT AS A SUMMER RESORT REGION.

Vacation time is at hand, and, as usual, there come columns of advice about the midsummer holiday. Advice is cheap, but good judgment would suggest a vacation in the country, where city-bred men and women and city-bred boys and girls may have a real chance to repair the waste of brain and nerve force that comes through strenuous living. In six hours or less fast express trains will put the tired-out, nerve-exhausted Bostonian down in the very heart of the grandest vacation land in the east, Vermont. This beautiful state boasts the glorious Green Mountains, Lake Champlain, Mt. Mansfield, and a score of other attractive resorts not only surpasses other sections in the beauty and variety of its scenery, but in the healthfulness of its climate and in the opportunities it offers for the enjoyment of out door life. Indeed, to one who loves nature in her quiet and sweetest moods no corner of our land is more attractive.

Newton Hospital Training School.

Nine graduate nurses were graduated at Newton Hospital Thursday afternoon of last week. Rev. Edward M. Noyes of the First Congregational church of Newton Centre delivered the address, following which there were vocal selections by Miss Goodrich. The presentation of diplomas was made by President J. R. Leeson of the hospital corporation, the graduation pins being awarded by Mrs. E. B. Haskell of Auburndale. A collation and inspection of the training school by the guests concluded the exercises. The members of the graduating class are Miss Harris, Miss Ellen Sullivan, Miss Elizabeth Doherty, Miss Minnie Spencer, Miss Florence Ryder, Miss Helen Jarvis, Miss Ethel Etherington, and Miss Florence Harvey. Miss Levine Le Blanc.

TO NURSING MOTHERS.

Are you worn out? Tired and completely run down? You have no vitality, no energy. You are nervous, weak, fretful and cry easily. For just such cases as yours Vin-Tone has been prepared. It overcomes that tired, weak feeling and puts new energy into body and mind.

Do not be skeptical and refuse to believe what eminent physicians pronounce to be a fact. Doctors who have made a deep study of this subject, have, after much patience, experimenting and expense, succeeded in compounding Vin-Tone. And having been convinced of its wonderful strengthening power, they now send it out into the world to do its work among poor weary human beings.

We are glad to be able to print the good news that a remedy has at last been discovered which takes right hold of any worn-out system and builds a foundation to health and happiness. To the nursing mother this will come like a God-send. One bottle will convince you. Sold on a positive guarantee by

Board of Aldermen.

A special meeting of the aldermen was held Monday evening to draw three grand jurors for the United States District Court. President Saltonstall presided and Aldermen Baker, Barber, Bishop, Cabot, Carter, Day, Dennison, Hunt, Mellen, Palmer, Sweeney and White were present.
Aldermen Mellen at the request of the President drew these names from the jury box, Frederick B. Bancroft, Burnham road, Wilbur G. Davis, Pleasant St., and Charles W. Dunn, Adams St.
The board adjourned at 7:55 p. m.

PRESS OUTING.

Over seventy members with ladies from the Suburban Press Association of New England attended the monthly meeting held last Monday at Norumbega Park. The gathering included editors and publishers of weekly papers from points as far distant as Portsmouth, N. H., Pawtucket, R.I. Spencer and Athol, Mass., as well as many from this vicinity. President Theodore P. Wilson of the Winchester Star presided. Through the courtesy of the Boston Elevated and Newton Street Railway Companies, complimentary cars were provided between Post Office Square, Boston, and the Park, and the Norumbega Park Company were equally courteous to the Association. Lunch was served by Mr. Bova and the performance at the theatre thoroughly enjoyed.

Burgess-Roy.

Miss Winona W. Roy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Roy, and Leslie A. Burgess were married at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the North Evangelical church, Nonantum. The Rev. Henry E. Oxnard officiated. The maid of honor was Miss Mildred Roy, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Misses Goldie Roy, Olive Burgess, Mildred Burgess, E. Eva Foss, Minnie Weldon and Nellie Weldon. Gertrude Butterfield was flower girl. George Burgess, a brother of the groom, was the best man. A reception at the home of the bride's parents, 13 Bridge st., followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Burgess will make their home in West Somerville.

Peculiar Accident.

A horse belonging to W. H. Mague, a contractor, was killed by an electric shock near the corner of Greenough and Auburn streets Tuesday noon. A tree had rubbed the insulation off an electric light wire, causing it to become heavily charged, as well as the ground about it.

The horse was one of a pair attached to a watering cart and when it drove up to a stand pipe under the tree one horse stepped into a pool of water which had been charged with electricity, with fatal results. The other horse was saved from the same fate with considerable difficulty.

A horse belonging to G. W. Peterson was also thrown off its feet by the current, but escaped serious injury. The street was roped off by the police until the wire could be repaired.

Serious Fire.

What threatened to prove a serious fire with a resulting large property loss broke out shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday morning in a wooden frame stable on Bellevue street, owned by Rev. Wolcott Calkins. The blaze is thought to have started from a barrel of lime in the rear of the building and before it was discovered, spread through the entire lower floor.

A passer-by sounded an alarm from box 116, which was followed by a second alarm as soon as the first apparatus arrived on the scene. The flames quickly enveloped the whole structure and spread to the stable of John T. Lodge in the rear of Fairmont avenue. Sparks also ignited the back of the Calkins house, but were quickly extinguished.
The Calkins stable is a total loss and the house, and the Lodge stable were injured by smoke and water. The loss on all three buildings will reach $2000, and is covered by insurance.

Norumbega Park.—The record for attendance was broken at Norumbega Park on Bunker Hill Day when the turnstiles registered over 25,000 who entered the park between the opening hour of 10 o'clock in the morning and the closing time. Saturday and Sunday followed with crowds which have seldom been equalled in the history of this beautiful resort's several successful seasons. The third week of the season opened last Monday with another crowded attendance which signifies that there is no decrease in the popularity of this beautiful resort on the Charles with its numerous amusements and attractions. The International Stars is the organization furnishing the entertainment for this week.

City Hall Notes.

Keith's Theatre—The big feature of the variety portion of the continuous show at Keith's for the week of June 27th will be Merian's trained dogs, a troupe of canines that have ever been exhibited in America before. The dogs appear on the stage unaccompanied by a trainer and go through a little play with a perfection of detail that is astonishing. Each canine is costumed to represent a given character. All the children within reaching distance of Boston should be given an opportunity to see Mon. Merian's dogs, as they will not appear elsewhere in New England. Among the noted entertainers scheduled to appear are Hal Merritt, in his "Poster Girl" monologue; the Reed Birds, in a new sketch called "Dodging the Dodges," introducing clever singing and dancing specialties; Gregory and Lind, a new team of skilful jugglers and hoop rollers; Cliff Gordon, the widely known and popular "German Politician," and Elizabeth Murray, story teller and ballad singer. The Fadetees woman's orchestra will make an entire change of program, as usual and a new set of pictures will be shown in the biograph.

Tremont Theatre—On Monday last "Woodland" entered upon the third month of its run at the Tremont Theatre. This merry Pixley and Lunders' opera has enjoyed undiminished prosperity since last April, and from the very beginning it has proved to be one of the most delightful entertainments ever offered the public by that highly successful manager, Henry W. Savage. The opera is a distinct novelty in every detail; both scenes are laid in the heart of the forest, and all the principal characters represent birds. Mr. Lunders has supplied delightful music, which is being played and whistled everywhere. There are beautiful stage pictures, and the chorus, composed of gay-plumed birds of the forest, is a delight to the eye and to the ear. Reservations have been made for large theatre parties every night for a considerable period, seats being on sale four weeks in advance.

COACH AND FAMILY HORSES.

The finest lot of high class horses ever exhibited for sale in New England. They were all selected with great care, have been carefully fitted, handled and driven regularly, so that they are fitted for use in the city and country. Beautifully matched coach and family pairs, coals, single drivers and saddlers, all at reasonable prices. Why not buy of a thoroughly responsible firm who have been in business for more than 20 years, and who can show a better list of regular customers and references than any dealers in New England. Our policy is, where we sell a horse and it does not give perfect satisfaction, to take it back and give another equally as good, without any additional charge. We can give the very best references. Send for our announcement.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

A retrospective glance at the session of the legislature just dissolved by prorogation, may not be without profit, even to those who may look at the spectacle, as many of the readers of this paper can, as those who have not had a finger in the pie, and are not responsible for what has been done or left undone.

The Blue Book will not be as large as that of last year, but it will be just as blue and will be looked upon with many misgivings by those who are obliged to make a living out of its contents, and for the especial benefit of whom it is created annually. One thing has been pretty well settled and that is that the legislature needs an editor and a proof reader. Defective legislation is becoming about as prevalent as votes at the State House, and it will soon become necessary to have a new commission to be called a commission on revision of legislative blunders. For years the courts have been busy in arriving at conclusions as to what the legislature intended, rather than what it said, in the enactment of certain laws. For years, the semi-colon law has been discussed, with and without the first syllable of that word, and now we have a new terror in the word "proceeds," as it appears in the new Sunday law. By this new law, the Sabbath is wider open than ever, and the law might be characterized as a no Sunday law. Imperfect phraseology seems to be the bane of legislation and is not even confined to the legislature, for the Governor and his august councillors made a horrible blunder on the tablet on the Hooker Monument, if Captain Gregg can be authority.

The closing act of the House recalls the Scripture where it says that "For the last state of that man shall be worse than the first," as the members raised a Constitutional question, as they disbanded, by passing the bounty bill over the veto in accepting two-thirds of the members present as a necessary number, while the Constitution expressly says two-thirds of the body where the bill originated must vote to pass the measure over the veto in order that the act may have force as law. Certainly this bounty for the veterans does not come as readily as the men went to the front forty years ago. Turning aside for the moment from the general subject of the bounty; that was an unusual scene, that last evening of the session, when the Republican members of the House mounted a Demo-rat upon their shoulders and carried him in triumph through the corridors in vindication for the part played by him in securing the passage of the bill over the veto of a Republican governor. It was remarked in this column early in the session, that indications pointed to the present as being the most independent legislative body for years, but the performance of Thursday evening, June 9th, was not even anticipated at that writing. That action beat all records and authorizes the slang query "where are we at?" There is a chance in that incident for a clever artist to make a cartoon that will immortalize him and ride him to a glory more lasting than the ride of Schofield of Ipswich land him in the lap of fame.

General Dalton has figured out that it will take double the amount that the state gets from the Government to pay the bounty of $125 to all the veterans even if the ten per cent. Cotton waste is included that the Commonwealth must pay whether it pays the bounty or not. Probably if Mr. Schofield had only secured General Dalton's figures before, he would have made that bounty just about half the amount that was in the bill. It isn't always wise to count the chickens by the cluck of the old hen.

However, there is a serious side to all this agitation. It may be more of an agitation than appears at this stage, for there are influences connected with the bounty question which cannot be blown away by a gentle whiff, and the proposition to pay a bounty has revised the subject of the soldiers' compensation and fanned into a flame the old sentiment, the seeds of which were sown in the dark days when the cry of Help! filled the land from Washington to the oceans, and promises grew upon the lips even of avarice and greed. General Dalton says that 60 per cent. of the old soldiers have gone the way of all the earth. Even if that be true, it leaves 40 per cent. of the men who stood in the trenches and have faced death on a hundred battle fields. That is an element, together with its sympathizers, that must be taken into account in the settlement of issues. Viewed in that light, the ride of Schofield, the Demo-rat, the other evening, is fraught with significance.

Notwithstanding all this, the argument, the conclusions and the logic of the Governor were entirely sound, uncontrovertible and absolutely beyond dispute. There was no foothold in the bounty proposition for sound reasoning or commonsense. It was a thing born out of season, as the sequel will show. The only question is, which will prevail? Alleged witches have been hung within an hour's ride of Beacon Hill, and with them "sound reasoning and commonsense" dangled in the air.

The general work of the session has been of value and will prove to be fully up to the standard. The Committee work was, as a rule, careful and commendable. The attention given to legislation upon the floors of the two Houses has been painstaking and diligent. It has been customary to criticize legislation and legislators in the press, but it must be conceded that the individual and his conduct is lost sight of in comparison with the general excellence of both conduct and labor. The fame of Massachusetts legislation is world wide and that fame will not be dimmed by the career of the session of 1904.

Again, is the Scripture recalled when the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House is alluded to, for it will be found next winter that "one has been taken and another left." As President Jones retires from legislation he can take with him the commendation of "well done," for his record will make him conspicuous as an honest, faithful and wise public servant; faithful in his work in both branches and honorable from the start, to the day he laid down the gavel in the Senate. The Senate has had many presiding officers who have reflected credit upon the Commonwealth; none have surpassed in dignity, faithfulness and capacity the service of George R. Jones.

The Speaker we shall have with us when the gilded dome shall welcome the legislature of 1905, and there will be abundant time and opportunity to reflect upon Mr. Frothingham. It may not be amiss at this point to allude to the Speaker's career for the first year of his service as presiding officer in the House. That career has been exceptional. Rarely if ever, has the gavel of the House been laid aside with so much credit, after one year's service, as has been the case with Mr. Frothingham. His future is bright with promise, and his further service will be looked forward to by his friends without solicitude.

Edgar J. Bliss.

WADE-RICKER.

Wednesday evening marked another of Lewiston's June weddings. Although not a church affair it was, without question, one of the sweetest home nuptials ever solemnized in this city. The bride was Miss Lucy M. Ricker, daughter of the late Dr. R. R. Ricker, and the groom was Mr. William R. Wade of Newton, Mass., son of the late Hon. Levi C. Wade, former president of the Mexican Central railroad. The social prominence of both families, the wide acquaintance and popularity of the bride, served to lend a general interest to the event although the ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and by a few near friends and although no formal reception followed.

It was in the spacious bow-window of the library that the marriage ceremony was performed. Overhead nodded the garland of green, in which were intermingled a few daisies. The bridal party included only the bride and groom; the Rev. P. F. Marston, pastor of the Pine street Congregational church in this city; Miss Mary Louise Goss, who attended Miss Ricker, and Mr. Levi C. Wade, Jr., of Newton, Mass., a brother of the groom, who acted as best man. The orchestra played the wedding march from Lohegrin and then Schumann's "Träumerei" during the brief, single ring service.

The bride was lovely in an entire gown of duchesse lace with garlands of rose point. The foundation was sheer white satin meshing over tulle. Upon the transparent yoke a single jewel was worn, a magnificent topaz, an heirloom in the Wade family. The sleeves were puffed over the elbow with a graceful fall of accordion-plaited chiffon beneath. The train was long, with foot ruffles, and over all fell the bridal veil of white tulle. This was caught at the forehead with a spray from her bouquet, which was of Linaria. The whole costume was one of the most elegant ever worn by a bride.

After the ceremony, the reception was very informal, only those in attendance at the wedding being present. Congratulations were most hearty and sincere. Refreshment was given the guests in the dining room and all took occasion to admire the many valuable gifts displayed in one of the rooms on the second floor. These included much silver and cut glass. Notable especially were the jewels and heirlooms which were exceedingly choice and beautiful. There were many gifts from out of the State and Mr. and Mrs. Wade received several congratulatory telegrams from away.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade will make their home in Lewiston with the bride's mother, Mrs. R. R. Ricker, at 81 Pine street, as Mr. Wade is to busy himself at Mount Corner in the development of the valuable tourmaline mines which he has recently leased.

Mr. Wade is a Harvard graduate of the class of 1904. He is a practical mining engineer and is president of the Maine Tourmaline Co. Mrs. Wade on her return is planning not to give up her office practice at her home. She is a graduate of Mt. Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C., and of the Cooper Medical College of San Francisco. Since then she has practiced medicine in Lewiston, having been a member of the staff of the Sisters' Hospital until her health required that she confine her attention for the most part to office work. She has been unusually successful and has a host of friends made in business as well as in a social way. —Lewiston Journal.

PHILBRICK-MATHEWS.

Miss Grace Elizabeth Mathews, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mathews of Newton Centre became the bride of Mr. Herbert Shaw Philbrick of Waterville, Me., yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. Everett D. Burr, D. D., of the Newton Centre Baptist church, at the residence of the bride's parents in Ash-ton Park, which was decorated with mountain laurel blossoms with wood greens for the occasion.

The bridal procession was led by Dr. Burr, followed by the groom and best man, Mr. Arthur James Danton of Bath, Me., the ushers, Dr. Appleton White Smith of Boston, Henry Russell Spencer of Columbus, O., Everett Arnold Greene of Newton Centre and Frank Herbert Philbrick of Cornell University. They were followed by the flower girls, the Misses Elizabeth Ashby Mathews, Esther Mathews of Poultny, Vt., and Helen Mathews of Chicago, nieces of the bride, all dressed in lace trimmed muslin and carrying baskets of pink sweet peas. The matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Herbert Mathews of Poultny, Vt., was gowned in champagne batiste and carried pale pink roses, tied with ribbons of the same color.

The bride on the arm of her father, wore a gown of white chiffon crepe de chine with valenciennes lace, a veil fastened with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

A reception followed from four to six o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Philbrick being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Mathews and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Philbrick.

VACATIONS IN VERMONT.

MANY DESIRABLE REST AND PLEASURE RESORTS IN GREEN MOUNTAINS.

It has been truthfully said that the man who fails to take a vacation does an injustice not only to himself but to his family. Wise men never miss the annual summer outing; they go to Vermont with their families and come home rested, invigorated and better men for so doing. "Summer homes among the Green Hills" tells of 100 delightful summer resorts in Vermont villages, among the mountains and on the shores and islands of Lake Champlain. One of them might suit you. Write to T. H. Hanley, N. E. P. A., Central Vermont Railway, 360 Washington St., Boston, enclosing six cent stamp and get copy of the handsomely illustrated book. It will open your eyes to the charms of Vermont in the good old summer time.

Mr. Francis Bigelow's re-nomination as county commissioner should come without a contest. He has held the office for several terms, and has done his work well. He knows the business and the needs of the county, and is so familiar with both that good business judgment demands his continuance in the office. We know of no movement in favor of any other candidate and presume he will meet with no opposition. —Cambridge Chronicle.

The Mail heartily coincides with the sentiments of its Cambridge contemporary and the voters of Middlesex county will doubtless pass a verdict of "well done" upon the stewardship of that capable official. —Lowell Mail.

Pearson's for July contains five special articles—Running the Campaign, by Ray Allen Wiley; The Past—A Picture of the Times When History Was Warm in the Making; Reconstruction, by Mr. Albert Bigelow; Maine's Modern Methods of "Financing," Example V.—The United States Steel Corporation, by Mr. Henry George, Jr.; The Battle of the Washita, Indian Fights and Fighters, by Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady; and the Mysterious Kenegade and the Indian's Side of the Fight at Beecher's Island, by Herbert Myrick. Six Short Stories—The Bride's Choice, An Indian Nights Entertainment, by A. Sarath Kumar Ghosh; The Sheriff of Ranger County, by Mr. W. W. Hines; How Don O. Paid for his Cigarettes, by K. and Hesketh Prichard; The Decision of the Majority, by Miss Alice Louise Lee; The Throne of His Fathers, by Miss Nellie K. Blissett; and A Comedy That Was Almost a Tragedy, by Mr. A. Wentworth James. A character sketch of Mr. David Belasco, a verse—Chance, by Mr. Clarence H. Urrer; and the usual short articles of the Home Notes Department. This July number of Pearson's is one of the most attractive of summer magazines.

BOSTON.
334 BOYLSTON ST.
(opposite the Arlington Street Church).

WILL RE-OPEN IN ITS NEW BUILDING, SEPT. 6, 1904.

This school now has the most elegant, complete and extensive private school building in America. In the planning and furnishing of its NEW BUILDING expense has not been considered even in the minutest detail. New fittings of special design will be found to have taken the place of the old furniture used in school buildings. The entire outfit of the school in its old building has been sacrificed to the school in the new home which has only the newest and best obtainable.

EXPERIENCED TEACHERS.
The only feature recognizable will be the able and experienced corps of teachers who have given this school its wide spread reputation. The tuition fees are the same as during the previous ten years, and pupils who contemplate attending may congratulate themselves that this year was the chosen time for their commercial course and the finishing of their school work.

COURSE OF STUDY.
The course of study prepares pupils thoroughly for all the duties of the counting-room. Book-keeping (by any system); Stenography (Graham and Pitman systems); English Composition; Commercial Correspondence; Commercial Law; Commercial Geography; Commercial Handwriting; Typewriting; Civil Service (preparation for examinations); Normal School Course (preparation for teaching). Pupils will find the location of the school most accessible from all points; over 400 cars daily, with a stopping place directly in front of the school building. No agents, solicitors or canvassers are employed by this institution. For full particulars see Year Book for 1904-5, 50¢ free. H. E. HIBBARD, Prin.

Neuralgia
Heart Disease

Chronic cases relieved in from 20 minutes to one hour, and complete cure guaranteed. No Morphine, Aconite, Opium, Chloroform or other dangerous drugs used. I guarantee to say that physicians who attempt to treat the above, fail to do so good because they do not fully understand the cause they endeavor to handle. Instead of removing the primary cause, as I do, they treat the secondary symptoms, hence their failure and my Success. I have treated and cured dozens and their families in Boston and New York without making Morphine friends of them.
I am a Specialist in Neuralgia, Asthma and Heart disease are my specialties. I guarantee to cure any case undertaken. Proofs at office.

Mr. Francis Bigelow's renomination as county commissioner should come without a contest. He has held the office for several terms, and has done his work well. He knows the business and the needs of the county,
and is so familiar with both that good business judgment demands his continuance in the office. We know of no movement in favor of any other candidate and presume he will meet with no opposition.—Cambridge Chronicle.

The Mail heartily coincides with the sentiments of its Cambridge contemporaries and the voters of Middlesex county will doubtless pass a verdict of "well done" upon the stewardship
of that capable official.—Lowell Mail.

The above sentiments of Cambridge and Lowell, we believe are echoed in this city regarding the advisability of retaining Mr. Bigelow in office. We believe that in ability and character
Mr. Bigelow is easily the best man on the commission, and the county should congratulate itself upon his willingness to serve it.

The accident which killed a horse
at West Newton on Tuesday from defective insulation of electric wires calls attention to the great dangers which surround us in this respect.
The Telephone Company are making good progress in placing its wires underground and there is an agreement in existence, made by ex-mayor Weeks and the Electric Light Company, by which a portion of the more dangerous wires were to be buried each year. It would seem about time that this agreement was enforced by the city authorities.

On account of the space needed for graduation programs we omit an article upon the Women's Clubs. Next week we print the history of the Newtonville Women's Guild.

City Hall Notes.

The county tax this year amounts to $67,933.90.

ens an assistant in the Eliot school.

The following resolutions were adopted:
"The School Committee hereby record their appreciation of the very efficient work of Supt. Atkinson their regret that he is to leave Newton and their best wishes for his continued success."

Ellis Place.

A pretty home wedding took place
Wednesday evening at 69 Cherry street
West Newton, when Miss Marcella Place and James F. Ellis, both of West Newton, were married by the Rev. William H. Dyas of Waltham.

The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Julia Maxwell of Waltham, and a little flower girl, Miss Frances Kay. The best man was Fred L. Cook of West Newton.

The house was attractively decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will be at home after Sept. 14 at 69 Cherry street, West
Newton.

Death of Mrs. Elder.

Mrs. Martha B. Elder, wife of Public Buildings Commissioner
George H. Elder died at her home on Davis street, West Newton, on Monday at the age of 66 years. Mrs.
Elder was a native of Boston but has been a resident of West Newton for many years. She is survived by her husband and one son, Mr. A. H. Elder of Newton Highlands. Funeral services were held from her home Wednesday afternoon. Rev. J. C. Jaynes officiated and the Mendelssohn quartet sang "Lead Kindly Light." "Nearer My God To Thee" and "Passing Out of the Shadow." A large number of friends were present including representatives from City Hall. The burial was at Newton Cemetery.

Club and Lodges.

Gethsemane Comandery, Knights Templar are visiting Natick today
on their annual celebration of St.
John's Day.

John J. Jones, charged with illegal liquor selling in West Newton, was found not guilty in the superior court at Cambridge on Monday. Jones is employed by a Waltham expressman named O'Brien, and was charged with having sold a case of ale to Mrs.
Anna Walsh of 4 Adams avenue.
Newton police officers watched the house, and after the expressman left entered the place and found the case.
Jones testified that he made about 40
calls in West Newton that same evening and in nearly every place delivered beer or whatever beverage the consignees had ordered. The sale was legal, he argued, because he acted as the agent of Mrs. Walsh.
The jury quickly returned a verdict of not guilty.

Flowers.

As has been customary for several years, the Boston Floral Emblem Society will distribute bouquets and potted plants to the poor children of Boston, on the coming Fourth of July. A tent will be erected on Boston Common for the purpose and five thousand tickets will be distributed through the police, the missions and the schools. To enable them to carry out their purpose, and so bring pleasure to many little ones who are denied the privilege of having flowers in their homes, the society asks the

The Blazed Trail

CHAPTER I.

IN the network of streams draining the eastern portion of Michigan and known as the Saginaw waters the great firm of Morrison & Daly had for many years carried on extensive logging operations in the wilderness.

Now at last, in the early eighties, they reached the end of their holdings. Another winter would finish the cut.

At this juncture Mr. Daly called to him John Radway, a man whom he knew to possess extensive experience, a little capital and a desire for more of both.

"Radway," said he when the two found themselves alone in the mill office, "we expect to cut this year some 50,000,000, which will finish our pine holdings in the Saginaw waters. Most of this timber lies over in the Crooked Lake district, and that we expect to put in ourselves. We own, however, 5,000,000 on the Cass branch which we would like to log on contract. Would you care to take the job?"

"How much a thousand do you give?" asked Radway.

"Four dollars," replied the lumberman.

"I'll look at it," replied the jobber.

So Radway got the "descriptions" and a little map divided into townships, sections and quarter sections and went out to look at it. He searched until he found a "blaze" on a tree, the marking on which indicated it as the corner of a section. From this corner the boundary lines were blazed at right angles in either direction. Radway followed the blazed lines. Thus he was able accurately to locate isolated "forties" (forty acres), "eighties," quarter sections and sections in a primeval wilderness. The feat, however, required considerable woodcraft, an exact sense of direction and a pocket compass.

These resources were still further drawn upon for the next task. Radway tramped the woods, hills and valleys to determine the most practical route over which to build a logging road from the standing timber to the shores of Cass branch. He found it to be an affair of some puzzlement. The pines stood on a country rolling with hills, deep with pot holes. It became necessary to dodge in and out, here and there, between the knolls, around and through the swamps, still keeping, however, in the same general direction and preserving always the requisite level or down grade. Radway had no vantage point from which to survey the country. A city man would promptly have lost himself in the tangle, but the woodsman emerged at last on the banks of a stream, leaving behind him a meandering trail of clipped trees.

"I'll take it," said he to Daly.

Daly now proceeded to drive a sharp bargain with him.

Customarily a jobber is paid a certain proportion of the agreed price as each stage of the work is completed. Daly objected to this method of procedure.

"You see, Radway," he explained, "it's our last season in the country. When this lot is in we want to pull up stakes, so we can't take any chances on not getting that timber in. If you don't finish your job, it keeps us here another season. There can be no doubt, therefore, that you finish your job. In other words, we can't take any chances. If you start the thing, you've got to carry it 'way through."

"I think I can, Mr. Daly," the jobber assured him.

"For that reason," went on Daly, "we object to paying you as the work progresses. We've got to have a guarantee that you don't quit on us and that those logs will be driven down the branch as far as the river in time to catch our drive. Therefore I'm going to make you a good price per thousand, but payable only when the logs are delivered to our river men."

Radway, with his usual mental attitude of one anxious to justify the other man, ended by seeing only his employer's argument. He did not perceive that the latter's proposition introduced into the transaction a gambling element. It became possible for Morrison & Daly to get a certain amount of work short of absolute completion done for nothing.

All this was in August. Radway, who was a good, practical woodsman, set about the job immediately. He gathered a crew, established a camp and began at once to cut roads through the country he had already blazed on his former trip.

Radway's task was not merely to level out and ballast the six feet of a roadbed already constructed, but to cut a way for five miles through the unbroken wilderness. The way had, moreover, to be not less than twenty-five feet wide, needed to be absolutely level and free from any kind of obstructions and required in the swamps liberal ballasting with poles, called cord-logs. Not only must the growth be removed, but the roots must be cut out and the inequalities of the ground leveled or filled up. Reflect further that Radway had but a brief time at his disposal, but a few months at most, and you will then be in a position to gauge the first difficulties of those the American pioneer expects to encounter as a matter of course.

The jobber of course pushed his roads as rapidly as possible, but was greatly handicapped by lack of men. Winter set in early and surprised him with several of the smaller branches yet to finish. The main line, however, was done.

At intervals squares were cut out alongside. In them two long timbers or skids were laid andironwise for the reception of the piles of logs which would be dragged from the fallen trees. They were called skidways. Then finally the season's cut began.

The men who were to fell the trees Radway distributed along one boundary of a "forty." They were instructed to move forward across the forty in a straight line, felling every pine tree over eight inches in diameter. While the saw gangs, three in number, prepared to fell the first trees, other men called swampers were busy cutting and clearing of roots narrow little trails down through the forest from the pine to the skidway at the edge of the logging road. The trails were perhaps three feet wide and marvels of smoothness, although no attempt was made to level mere inequalities of the ground. They were called travoy roads (French travois). Down them the logs would be dragged and hauled either by means of heavy steel tongs or a short sledge on which one end of the timber would be chained.

Meantime the sawyers were busy. Each pair of men selected a tree, the first they encountered over the blazed line of their forty. After determining in which direction it was to fall they set to work to chop a deep gash in that side of the trunk.

Tom Broadhead and Henry Paul picked out a tremendous pine, which they determined to throw across a little open space in proximity to the travoy road. One stood to right, the other left, and alternately their axes bit deep. Tom glanced up as a sailor looks aloft.

"She'll do, Hank," said he.

The two then with a dozen half clips of the ax removed the inequalities of the bark from the saw's path. The long flexible ribbon of steel began to sing, bending so adaptably to the hands and motions of the men manipulating that it did not seem possible so mobile an instrument could cut the rough pine. In a moment the song changed timbre. Without a word the men straightened their backs. Tom flinched along the blade a thin stream of kerosene oil from a bottle in his hip pocket, and the sawyers again bent to their work, swaying back and forth rhythmically, their muscles rippling under the texture of their woollen like those of a panther under its skin. The outer edge of the saw blade disappeared.

"Better wedge her, Tom," advised Hank.

They paused while, with a heavy sledge, Tom drove a triangle of steel into the crack made by the sawing. This prevented the weight of the tree from pinching the saw. Then the rhythmic z-z-z, z-z-z, again took up its song.

When the trunk was nearly severed Tom drove another and thicker wedge. "Timber!" halloed Hank in a long drawn melodious call that melted through the woods into the distance. The swampers ceased work and withdrew to safety.

Hank coolly unhooked his saw handle, and Tom drew the blade through and out the other side.

The tree shivered, then leaned ever so slightly from the perpendicular, then fell, at first gently, afterward with a crescendo rush, tearing through the branches of other trees, bending the small timber, breaking the smallest and at last hitting with a tremendous crash and bang which filled the air with a fog of small twigs, needles and the powder of snow.

Then the swampers, who have by now finished the travoy road, trimmed the prostrate trunk clear of all protuberances. It required fairly skillful ax work. The branches had to be shaved close and clear, and at the same time the trunk must not be gashed. And often a man was forced to wield his instrument from a constrained position.

The chopped branches and limbs had now to be dragged clear and piled.

While this was being finished Tom and Hank marked off and saved the log lengths, paying due attention to the necessity of avoiding knots, forks and rotten places. Thus some of the logs were eighteen, some sixteen or fourteen and some only twelve feet in length.

Next appeared the teamsters with their little wooden sledges, their steel chains and their tongs. They had been helping the skidders to place the parallel and level beams, or skids, on which the logs were to be piled by the side of the road. The tree which Tom and Hank had just felled lay up a gentle slope from the new travoy road, so little Fabian Laveque, the teamster, clamped the bite of his tongs to the end of the largest or butt log.

"Allez, Molly!" he cried.

A horse, huge, elephantine, her head down, nose close to her chest, intelligently spying her steps, moved. The log half rolled over, slid three feet and menaced a stump.

"Gee!" cried Laveque.

Molly stepped twice directly sideways, planted her forefoot on a root she had seen and pulled sharply. The end of the log slid around the stump.

"Allez!" commanded Laveque.

And Molly started gingerly down the hill. She pulled the timber, heavy as an iron safe, here and there through the brush, missing no steps, ninking no false moves, backing and finally getting out of the way of an unexpected roll with the ease and intelligence of Laveque himself. In five minutes the burden lay by the travoy road. In two minutes more one end of it had been rolled on the little flat wooden sledge and, the other end dragging, it was winding majestically down through the ancient forest.

When Molly and Fabian had traversed the log to the skidway they drew it with a bump across the two parallel skids and left it there to be rolled to the top of the pile.

Then Mike McGovern and Bob Stratton and Jim Gladys took charge of it. Mike and Bob were running the cant hooks, while Jim stood on top of the great pile of logs already decked. A slender, pliable steel chain like a gray snake ran over the top of the pile and disappeared through a pulley to an invisible horse—Jenny, the mate of Molly. Jim threw the end of this chain down. Bob passed it over and under the log and returned it to Jim, who reached down after it with the hook of his implement. Thus the stick of timber rested in a long loop, one end of which led to the invisible horse, and the other Jim made fast to the top of the pile. He did so by jumping into another log the steel swamp hook with which the chain was armed. When all was made fast the horse started.

"She's a bumper," said Bob. "Look out, Mike!"

The log slid to the foot of the two parallel poles laid slanting up the face of the pile. Then it trembled on the ascent. But one end stuck for an instant, and at once the log took on a dangerous slant. Quick as light Bob and Mike sprang forward, gripped the hooks of the cant hooks like great thumbs and forefingers, and while one held with all his power, the other gave a sharp twist upward. The log straightened. It was a master feat of power and the knack of applying strength justly.

At the top of the little incline the timber hovered for a second.

"One more!" sang out Jim to the driver. He poised, stepped lightly up and over and avoided by the safe hairbreadth being crushed when the log rolled. But it did not lie quite straight or even. So Mike cut a short, thick block and all three stirred the heavy timber sufficiently to admit of the billie's insertion.

Then the chain was thrown down for another.

Jenny, harnessed only to a short, straight bar with a hook in it, leaned to her collar and dug her hoofs at the word of command. The driver, close to her tail, held fast the slender steel chain of an ingenious hitch about the ever useful swamp hook. When Jim shouted "Whoa!" from the top of the skidway the driver did not trouble to stop the horse; he merely let go the hook. So the power was shut off suddenly, as is meet and proper in such ticklish business. He turned and walked back, and Jenny, like a dog, without the necessity of command, followed him in slow patience.

Now came Dyer, a sealer, rapidly down the logging road, a small, slender man with a little, turned up mustache. The men disliked him because of his affectation of a city smartness and because he never ate with them, even when there was plenty of room. The sealer's duty at present was to measure the diameter of the logs in each skidway and so compute the number of board feet. At the office he tended van, kept the books and looked after supplies.

He approached the skidway rapidly, laid his flexible rule across the face of each log, made a mark on his placet in the column to which the log belonged, thrust the tablet in the pocket of his coat, seized a blue crayon, in a long haul, with which he made an 's' as indication that the log had been sealed, and finally tapped several times strongly with a sledge hammer. On the face of the hammer in relief was an M inside of a delta. This was the company's brand, and so the log was branded as belonging to them. He swarmed over the skidway, rapid and absorbed, in strange activity to the slower power of the actual skidding. In a moment he moved on to the next scene of operations without having said a word to any of the men.

"A fine thing," said Mike, spitting.

So day after day the work went on. Radway spent his time tramping through the woods, figuring on new work, showing the men how to do things better or differently, discussing minute expedients with the blacksmith, the carpenter, the cook.

He was not without his troubles. First he had not enough men, the snow lacked and then came too abundantly, horses fell sick of colic or calked themselves, supplies ran low unexpectedly, trees turned out "punk," a certain bit of ground proved soft for travoying, and so on. At election time, of course, a number of the men went out.

And one evening, two days after election time, another and important character entered the North woods and our story.

CHAPTER II.

ON the evening in question some thirty or forty miles southeast of Radway's camp a train was crawling over a badly laid track that led toward the Saginaw valley. The whole affair was very crude. To the edge of the right of way pushed the dense swamp, like a black curtain shutting the virgin country from the view of civilization. Across the snow were tracks of animals.

The train consisted of a string of freight cars, one coach divided half and half between baggage and smoker, and a day car occupied by two silent, awkward women and a child. In the smoker lounged a dozen men. They were of various sizes and descriptions, but they all wore heavy blanket mackinaw coats, rubber shoes and thick German socks tied at the knee. The air was so thick with smoke that the men had difficulty in distinguishing objects across the length of the car.

The passengers sprawled in various attitudes, and their occupations were diverse. Three nearest the baggage room door attempted to shug, but without much success. A man in the corner breathed softly through a mouth organ, to the music of which his seat mate, leaning his head sideways, gave close attention. One big fellow with a square beard swaggered back and forth down the aisle offering to every one a refreshment from a quart bottle. It was rarely refused. Of the dozen probably three-quarters were more or less drunk.

After a time the smoke became too dense. A short, thicket fellow with an evil, dark face coolly thrust his heel through a window. The conductor, who, with the brakeman and baggage master, was seated in the baggage van, heard the jingle of glass. He arose.

"Guess I'll take up tickets," he remarked. "Perhaps it will quiet the boys down a little."

The conductor was a big man, raw-boned and broad, with a hawk face. His every motion showed lean, quick, pantherlike power.

"Let her went," replied the brakeman, rising as a matter of course to follow his chief.

The brakeman was stocky, short and long armed. In the old lighting days Michigan railroads chose their train officials with an eye to their superior detoids. The two men loomed on the noisy smoking compartment.

"Tickets, please," clicked the conductor sharply.

Most of the men began to fumble about in their pockets, but the three singers and the man who had been offering the quart bottle did not stir.

"Ticket, Jack?" repeated the conductor. "Come on, now!"

The big bearded man leaned uncertainly against the seat.

"Now, look here, bud," he urged in wheedling tones. "I ain't got no ticket. You know how it is, Bud. I blows my stakes." He fished uncertainly in his pocket and produced the quart bottle, nearly empty. "Have a drink?"

"No," said the conductor sharply.

"A' right," replied Jack amiably. "Take one myself." He tipped the bottle, emptied it and hurled it through a window. The conductor paid no apparent attention to the breaking of the glass.

"If you haven't any ticket, you'll have to get off," said he.

The big man straightened up.

"You go to blazes!" he snorted, and with the sole of his spiked boot delivered a mighty kick at the conductor's thigh.

The official, agile as a wildcat, leaped back, then forward and knocked the man half the length of the car. You see, he was used to it. Before Jack could regain his feet the official stood over him.

The three men in the corner had also risen and were staggering down the aisle intent on battle. The conductor took in the chances with professional rapidity.

"Get 'em, Jimmy!" said he.

And as the big man finally swayed to his feet he was seized by the collar and trousers in the grip known to "bummers" everywhere, hustled to the door, which some one obligingly opened, and hurled from the moving train into the snow. The conductor did not care a straw whether the obstreperous Jack lit on his head or his feet, lit a snow bank or a pile of ties.

The conductor returned to find a rolling, kicking, gouging mass of kinetic energy knocking the varnish off all one end of the car. A head appearing, he coolly butted it three times against a corner of the seat arm, after which he pulled the contestant out by the hair and threw him into a seat, where he lay limp. Then it could be seen that Jimmy had clasped tight in his embrace a leg each of the other two. He hugged them close to his breast and fanned his face down against them to protect his features. They could pound the top of his head and welcome. The only thing he really feared was a kick in the side, and for that there was hardly room.

The conductor stood over the heap, at a manifest advantage.

"You lumber jacks had enough, or do you want to catch it plenty?"

The men, drunk though they were, realized their helplessness. They signified they had had enough. Jimmy thereupon released them and stood up, brushing down his tousled hair with his stubby fingers.

"Now, is it ticket or bounce?" inquired the conductor.

After some difficulty and grumbling the two paid their fare and that of the third, who was still dazed.

The interested spectators of the little drama included two men near the water cooler who were perfectly sober. One of them was perhaps past the best of life, but still straight and vigorous. His lean face was leathery brown in contrast to a long mustache and heavy eyebrows bleached nearly white. His eyes were a clear, steady blue and his frame was slender, but wiry. He wore the regulation mackinaw blanket coat, a peaked cap with an extraordinary high crown and buckskin moccasins over long stockings.

The other was younger, not more than twenty-six perhaps, with the clean cut, regular features we have come to consider typically American. Eyebrows that curved far down along the temples and eyelashes of a darkness in contrast to the prevailing note of his complexion combined to lend him a rather brooding, soft and melancholy air which a very cursory second examination showed to be fictitious. His eyes, like the woodman's, were steady, but inquiring. His jaw was square and settled, his mouth straight. Unlike the other inmates of the car he wore an ordinary business suit, somewhat worn, but of good cut and a style that showed even over the soft flannel shirt. The trousers were, however, bound inside the usual socks and rubbers.

The two seat mates had occupied their time each in his own fashion. The elder stared straight before him and spat with a certain periodicity into the center of the aisle. The younger stretched back lazily in an attitude of ease. Sometimes he smoked a pipe. Thrice he read over a letter. It was from his sister and announced her arrival at the little rural village in which he had made arrangements for her to stay. "It is interesting now," she wrote, "though the resources do not look as though they would wear well. I am learning under Mrs. Renwick to sweep and dust and bake and stew and do a multitude of other things which I always vaguely supposed came ready made. I like it, but after I have learned it all I do not believe the practice will appeal to me much. However, I can stand it well enough for a year or two or three, for I am young, and then you will have made your everlasting fortune, of course."

"She's a trump," said Thorpe to himself, "and she shall have her everlasting fortune if there's such a thing in the country."

He jingled the $3.00 in his pocket and smiled. That was the extent of his everlasting fortune at present.

The letter had been answered from Detroit.

"I am glad you are settled," he wrote. "At least I know you have enough to eat and a roof over you. I hope sincerely that you will do your best to fit yourself to your new conditions. I know it is hard, but with my lack of experience and my ignorance as to where to take hold it may be a good many years before we can do any better."

When Helen Thorpe read this she cried. Things had gone wrong that morning, and an encouraging word would have helped her. The sonar tone of her brother's communication threw her into a fit of the blues from which for the first time she saw her surroundings in a depressing and distasteful light. And yet he had written as he did with the kindest possible motives.

Thorpe had the misfortune to be one of those individuals who, though careless of what people in general may think of them, are in a corresponding degree sensitive to the opinion of the few they love. This feeling was further exaggerated by a constitutional shrinking from any outward manifestation of the emotions. Perhaps for this reason he was never entirely sincere with those he loved.

At the degree of his father Harry Thorpe had done a great deal of thinking and planning which he kept carefully to himself. He considered in turn the different occupations to which he could turn his hand and negotiated them one by one. Few business firms would care to employ the son of a shrewd an embezzler as Henry Thorpe. Finally he came to a decision. He communicated this decision to his sister. It would have commended itself more logically to her had she been able to follow step by step the consideration that had led her brother to it. As the event turned, she was forced to accept it blindly. She knew that her brother intended going west, but as to his hopes and plans she was in ignorance. A little sympathy, a little mutual understanding, would have meant a great deal to her, for a girl whose mother she but dimly remembers turns naturally to her next of kin. Helen Thorpe had always admired her brother, but had never before needed him. She had looked upon him as strong, self contained, a little moody.

At the beginning of the row in the smoking car Thorpe laid aside his letter and watched with keen appreciation the direct practicality of the trainmen's method. When the bearded man fell before the conductor's blow, he turned to the individual at his side.

"He knows how to hit, doesn't he?" he observed. "That fellow was knocked well off his feet."

"He does," agreed the other dryly. They fell into a desultory conversation of fits and starts. Woodsman of the genuine sort are never talkative, and Thorpe, as has been explained, was constitutionally reticent. In the course of their disjointed remarks Thorpe explained that he was looking for work in the woods and intended first of all to try the Morrison & Daly camps at Beeson lake.

"Know anything about logging?" inquired the stranger.

"Nothing," Thorpe confessed.

"Ain't much show for anything but lumber jacks. What did you think of doing?"

"I don't know," said Thorpe doubtfully. "I have driven horses a good deal. I thought I might drive team."

The woodsman turned slowly and looked Thorpe over with a quizzical eye. Then he faced to the front again and spat.

"Quite like," he replied, still more dryly.

The boy's remark had amused him, and he had showed it, as much as he ever showed anything. Excepting always the river men, the driver of a team commands the highest wages among out of door workers.

It is easier to drive a fire engine than a logging team.

But in spite of the naivete of the remark the woodsman had seen something in Thorpe he liked. Such men become rather expert in the reading of character. He revised his first intention to let the conversation drop.

"I think M. & D. is rather full up just now," he remarked. "I'm walkin' boss over there. The roads is about all made, and roadmaking is what a greenhorn tackles first. They're more chance earlier in the year. But if the old fellow—he strongly accented the first word—"hadn't nothing" for you, just ask for Tim Shearer, an' I'll try to put you on the trail for some jobber's camp."

The three who had come into collision with Jimmy and had been getting nosier. They had produced a stone jug and had collected the remainder of the passengers, with the exception of Shearer and Thorpe, and now were passing the jug rapidly from hand to hand. Soon they became musical, striking up one of the weird, long drawn out chants so popular with the shanty boys. Thorpe shrewdly guessed his companion to be a man of some weight and did not hesitate to ascribe his immunity from annoyance to the other's presence.

"It's a bad thing," said the walking boss. "I used to be at it myself, and I know."

"Boss'n Lake?" cried Jimmy fiercely through the aperture of the door.

"You'll find the boardin' house just across over the track," said the woodsman, holding out his hand. "So long. See you again if you don't find a job with the old fellow. My name's Shearer."

"Mine is Thorpe," replied the other. "Thank you."

Thorpe followed and found himself on the frozen platform of a little dark railway station. Directly across the track from the railway station a single building was picked from the dark by a solitary lamp in a lower story room. The four who had descended before Thorpe made over toward this light, stumbling and laughing uncertainly, so he knew it was probably the boarding house and prepared to follow them.

The five were met at the steps by the proprietor of the boarding house. This man was short and stout, with a bare-lip and cleft palate, which at once gave him the well known sturring speech of persons so afflicted and imparted also to the timbre of his voice a peculiarly hollow, resonant, trumpetlike note. He stumped about energetically on a wooden leg of home manufacture. It was a cumbersome instrument, heavy, with deep pine socket for the stump and a projecting brace which passed under a leather belt around the man's waist. This instrument he used with the dexterity of a third hand. As Thorpe watched him he drove in a projecting nail, kicked two "turkeys" inside the open door and stuck the armed end of his peg leg through the top and bottom of the whiskey jug that one of the new arrivals had set down near the door. The whiskey promptly ran out. At this the cripple flinched the impaled jug from the wooden leg far out over the rail of the veranda into the snow.

A growl went up.

"What'n thunder's that for?" snarled one of the owners of the whiskey threateningly.

Reason Why Birds Make Toilet.

As bird fashions do not change, the lady birds of today wear the same kind of dresses their grandmothers wore and are never troubled about style. Two suits a year are quite enough for most birds, but they need to take great care of them. Each separate feather must be cleaned and looked over and the useless ones pulled out. You have seen a canary preening his feathers by lifting them and smoothing them out with his bill, and you have thought him vain to do this so often. If you neglect to comb your hair it will become tangled and look untidy, but more serious things happen to a bird who does not comb his feathers. These feathers are not packed close together, you know, but lie loose, and have spaces between them filled with air. When a bird wants to get warmer he lifts his feathers so that those air spaces may be larger, but if his feathers are tangled or wet and dirty he could not raise them, and soon he could not keep the heat in his little body and would die, of course.

The Capacity of the Lungs.

The lungs contain about one gallon of air at their usual degree of inflation. We breathe on an average 1,200 times per hour, inhaling 600 gallons of air, or 21,600 gallons per day. The aggregate surface of the air cells of the lungs exceeds 20,000 square inches, an area nearly equal to the floor of a room twelve feet square.

Something of a Torrent.

Young Wife (sighing)—I will not be quiet! Before we were married you said I had a charming flow of language. Young Husband—And so you have, dear. It not only flows, but dashes, leaps, bounds, roars, goes over extraneous and null studies, and there is an occasional waterspout as well.

Curiosity of Son-in-law and Women.

An English lady traveling with her husband in Sonlandland writes: "We were honored by a visit from the wife, infant and mother of the chief of a neighboring zereba. They had never seen any European women before and came to see what a men-sahib was like. They examined everything, from my hairbrushes to my boots, and were especially charmed with my big pill box hat. With some hesitation they asked if I would mind letting down my hair. One's coiffure in camp is very simple, and the removal of a few hairpins gratified their curiosity. Then they pressed Cam, my maid, who has short curly hair, to do the same. We had to give up all explanation at the difference, and finally they accepted the ayah's theory that long and short hair was the English distinction between married women and maids and that when Cam married she would grow her hair long. The Sonland woman has her hair—or, rather, curly wool—dressed only twice in her life, once when it is plaited in myriads of tiny plaits no thicker than twine, and once again when she marries, when it is inclosed in a blue bag."

The Magic in the Letter R.

"Did you ever notice," asked the observer of things nobody else ever notices, "what a lot of magic there is in that little letter R?"

"For instance, it can turn a golfing tee into a tree, an all into a rail, a gain into a grain, a fog into a frog, a tall into a trail, a hose into a horse, a bit into a bird, a hen into a hern, a health into a hearth, a bit of heat into a heart, a but into another kind of but, a put into a part, a cut into a cart, a spit into a split, a sit into a first, a bow into a brow, a peal into a pearl, a peach into a prech, a bench into a breach, a wing into a wring, a stove into a starve, a gab into a grab or a garb, a skit into a skirt, a sling into a string, a tuck into a truck, a bell into a broil, a mine into a miner, a bush into a brush, a line into a liner, a bag into a brag, a bay into a bray, a payer into a prayer, a band into a brand, a cow into a crow, etc., world without end."—Baltimore American.

A Man Is What He Eats.

I have seen some of the uncoked fruits and nuts people. I don't say I saw the right ones. Like enough, I saw only those who, for the good of the cause, should never have been allowed to wander forth into society. They one and all professed loudly to be in the rudest physical health. It seemed to me they lacked the proper scenic accessories. A floral pillow with "Rest" on it in immortal letters, say about here, and a sheaf of wheat tied with purple satin faced ribbon over their would have seemed more natural and suited their complexion better. As to their mental vigor, after I had heard them talk awhile I gave right in to their most cardinal doctrine: A man is what he eats. If he eats beef he becomes of the beef beefy; if he eats nuts he becomes—but enough.—Everybody's Magazine.

The Shamrock.

The Trinity legend of the shamrock appears first in literature in 1727, in Caleb Threlkeld's "Synopsis Stirpium Hibernicarum." Under the heading of "Trifolium Pratense Album" occurs the following passage: "This plant is worn by the people in their hats on the 17th day of March yearly, which is called St. Patrick Day, it being a current tradition that by this three leaved grass he emblematically set forth to them the mystery of the Holy Trinity. However, when they wet their Shamrock-age, they often commit excess in liquor, which is not a right keeping of a day to the Lord, error generally leading to debauchery."

Where the Romans Excelled.

The Romans were not in want of teachers or of models, for they had the Egyptians and the Greeks, but they never succeeded in creating an art characteristic of themselves. No people perhaps ever betrayed less originality in their productions in this field, but they raised the other elements of civilization to the highest point. Their military organization assured them the domination of the world; their political and judicial institutions are still patterns for us, and their literature inspired the centuries that followed them.

A Quick Reply.

The Duchess of Lauraguais, who was somewhat given to making poetry, could not think of a word to rhyme with calf. Turning to Talleyrand, who chanced to be by her side, she said, "Prince, give me a rhyme to calf." "Impossible, duchess," replied Talleyrand without a moment's delay, "for that which pertains to the head of a woman has neither rhyme nor reason."

More to the Point.

"Ever real interested," said Deacon Skinner, "I'll tell ye what I want fur that horse."

"Oh, I wouldn't be interested in knowin' that," replied Farmer Shoude. "No?"

"No, but I wouldn't mind knowin' what ye'd take."—Philadelphia Press.

Deer.

Bill—You say you never make the mistake of shooting something else for a deer? Jim—No; I did it once; shot a man's $500 cow and had to pay for it.

Bill—I should say that experience was a deer teacher.—Yonkers Statesman.

Willing to Help.

"But," said Miss Roxley's father, "how about supporting my daughter? Have you considered that thoroughly?" "Oh, yes," replied the suitor, "I'm willing to help."—Philadelphia Ledger.

IN THE WORLD.

WHY?

1st—They are seamless, having no seams either at toe or heel, as many so so called seamless stockings have.

2nd—They are woven to fit the contour of the leg and hold their shape after washing.

N. B.—To the best of our knowledge there is no other 12 1-2c Hose on sale in this country today, but what is woven the same the full length and steam-shrunk into shape; after washing there is no shape to them. Yale Hose fit until worn out.

3rd—They are sufficiently elastic to fit every one.

4th—They are absolutely Fast Black and remain a brilliant color after repeated washings.

5th—They are made of the strongest yarn put into any hose at this price and have an extra thread all through the foot. These two reasons make them the best wearing 12 1-2c Hose in the world.

6th—They cost us more than any other 12 1-2c Hose we could buy.
